

GOVERNOR DONAHEY OUSTS CHIEF OF POLICE FOLLOWING CAPITAL HEARING

THINK PINCHOT'S PLAN TO AVERT STRIKE. SUCCESS

Obtaining of Small Wage Increase Will Solve Problem

ABOLISH CHECKOFF Common Ground for Arbitration is Now Being Sought

Harrisburg, Pa., August 28.—Having delivered his no-strike ultimatum to the anthracite operators and miners in true Rooseveltian fashion, Governor Pinchot today settled down to the task of providing a common ground of settlement upon which both parties may stand without loss of prestige or honor.

At nine this morning, the governor entered into executive session with the operating group. At two this afternoon, he will continue his conference of yesterday with the miners. From sources exceedingly close to the chief executive of the commonwealth of Pennsylvania came the report that Pinchot is most hopeful of averting a shutdown in the hard coal fields on September 1.

This is to be accomplished, it was stated, by securing for the miners a small wage increase and by assuring the operators that the fight for the checkoff system will be abandoned. Reports have poured into the governor's office from investigators in the field that the miners are not anxious to strike that they would be satisfied with a small increase in pay and that they have no real interest in the checkoff—in some cases even being antagonistic to its adoption. Armed with these reports, it is understood Governor Pinchot plans to get from the miners the minimum wage in exchange which they would consider and submit it to the operators with a definite understanding that the checkoff question would "not" be pressed any further.

The impression created by Governor Pinchot yesterday was distinctly favorable. Miners and operators alike emerged from their first day at the state capital with an added respect for the sincerity and determination of the man who is attempting to accomplish what his government has failed to do.

The operators at their closed session with the governor this morning were prepared to state their willingness to submit every point of difference to arbitration. Samuel D. Warriner, spokesman for the mine operators before being pledged to silence yesterday by Pinchot, declared: "The operators will tell Governor Pinchot that they are willing to arbitrate all eleven questions, even the checkoff."

RECORD CROWD AT OHIO STATE FAIR

Columbus, August 28.—Despite a second cloudy and overcast day, with showers promised by the weatherman, Ohio State fair officials today were expecting another record breaking crowd with the addition of three events, a baby show, ball casting tournament and mile exhibition race by the world's champion pacing gelding Sandro, driven by the veteran Pop Geers to the day's program.

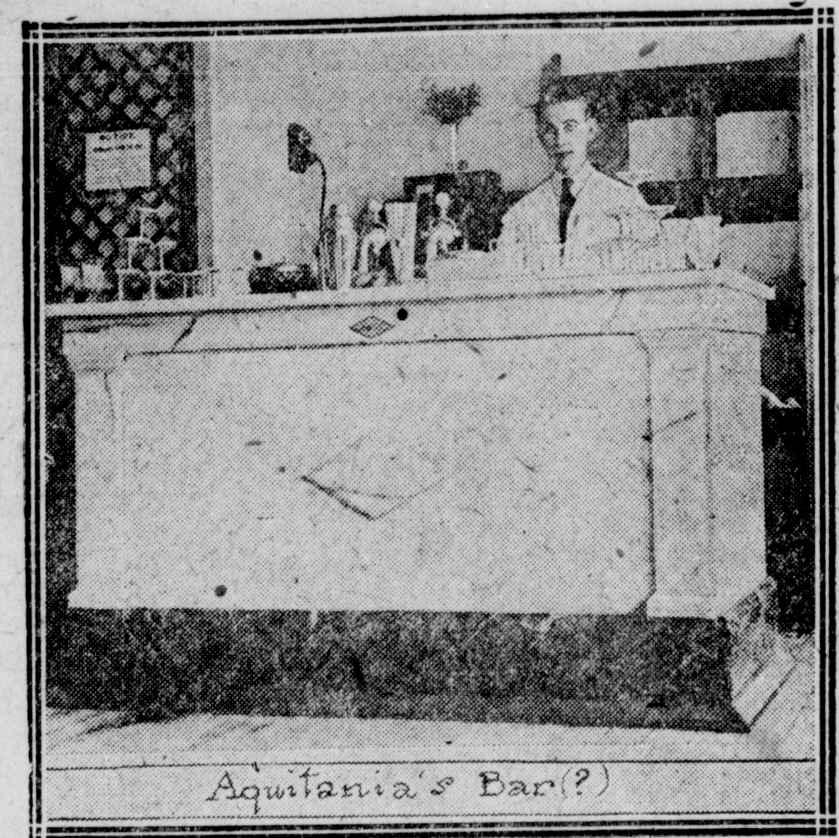

FREE STATE MAKES ELECTION SWEEP

Dublin, Aug. 28.—Indications this evening were that the Free State candidates had made a clean sweep in the first general election held yesterday. Election of Wm. T. Cosgrave, of the Dail Eireann, is assured. Cosgrave's brother, Phillip also was elected to the Dail. Prof. McNeill, of the boundary commission was elected by the national university constituency.

The Countess Markiewicz was the only Republican candidate leading in the Dublin district.

President Cosgrave and a party of Irish officials are expected to leave for Rome in a few days. They will visit the Vatican.

OH, SEE WHAT MR. VOLSTEAD HAS DONE!

Who'd ever have thought it? When the huge Cunard Aquitania sailed out of the more-or-less-dry port of New York, on her homeward journey, her bar was open, but it might as well have been a sandbar, for it was only an American-made, soda-water fountain, where the drug-

NAME C. A. WEAVER COUNTRY CLUB HEAD

C. A. Weaver was elected president of the Xenia Country Club at a special meeting of the board of directors of the organization held Monday night.

Mr. Weaver will succeed J. E. Kelly, who resigned when he became professional at the Miami Valley Golf Club, Dayton. The position has since been vacant.

Mr. Weaver has been a member of the board of Directors. He will serve as president the balance of the unexpired term. All new officers will be elected in November.

EIGHT WORKERS ARE BURIED IN CAVE-IN

Baltimore, Md., Aug. 28.—Eight men were buried beneath hundreds of tons of sand and dirt when an embankment at Carey and Baker Streets, in the excavation for the colored high school, caved in shortly before noon today.

Five of the men buried were rescued by firemen and police. They were taken to the Colonial Hospital.

FIRE BREAKS OUT IN U. S. CAPITOL

Washington, Aug. 28.—Fire of undetermined origin broke out in the basement of the United States Capitol early today, but was extinguished before it spread to other parts of the building. Hundreds of gallons of water were poured into the basement and the flames confined to a room in which was stored cordwood used in fireplaces in the senate office building. There was no estimate of the damage.

FINDER OF GOLD DISAPPEARS: U. S. WOULD SEIZE IT

Workman Uncarths Tin Box Said to Contain Over $100,000

BERGDOLL SAYS HIS Declares He Buried Money But Renounces All Claims

Washington, Aug. 28.—If the money, said to be $105,000 in gold, found near Hagerstown, Md., should prove to be the property of Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, the United States government will seek to obtain possession of it, Allen Property Custodian Miller said, and added:

"In May, 1921, when the alien property custodian seized the property of Bergdoll, in response to President Harding's orders, it was done within the scope of the trading with the enemy act. The seizure of the Bergdoll property has been successfully defended by the government in all court actions brought so far.

"Under the Knox-Porter peace resolution, adopted July 2, 1921, a provision was contained therein that any demand made by the government through the alien property custodian, covering enemy property, was in full force and effect for property that had not been actually reduced to possession, even though a state of peace existed by reason of the resolution.

"The demands served on banks, Mrs. Bergdoll and other individuals known to have Bergdoll's property, would cover the $105,000 sum of money which Bergdoll was reported to have hidden in the vicinity of Hagerstown.

"Arrangements have been made with William J. Burns, chief of the bureau of investigation, department of justice, for agents well versed and experienced in the Bergdoll case to investigate the whole occurrence in the vicinity of Hagerstown.

According to reports reaching here from Hagerstown, Lee Houser, finder of the money, has disappeared. At his house it was said he had "gone fishing," but no information as to his definite whereabouts was obtainable. Houser unearthed the money while working on the highway.

A secret passage leading from the room which Bergdoll occupied at the Vivian hotel here was discovered for the first time. It probably explains how the draft dodger was able to make his second escape when the hotel was surrounded by federal agents.

Houser, according to the story reaching here, was helping to widen a road around Hagerstown on Thursday when his pick struck a tin box. Looking down he saw a $10 gold piece. He picked that up hastily and then the tin box, filled with similar coins that his pick upturned. He immediately left for his home with the money and later announced he had found $10,000. Monday he is said to have told that in reality there had been $110,000 in the tin box, most of it in bills of a larger denomination. Houser it is said, has expressed his willingness to give up the money to whoever can prove their claim for it.

HONOLULU AS AVIATION CENTER

London, Aug. 28.—A dispatch from Sydney, New South Wales, says the Pan-Pacific science congress discussed a proposal to make Honolulu the Pacific aviation center, communicating with North and South America, Japan and Australia. The reports of experts said that from Honolulu it is possible to reach the United States in 52 flying hours, Japan 72 hours, Australia 112 hours and South America 133 hours.

THREE AMERICANS INJURED

London, Aug. 28.—Three Americans were injured in an aeroplane accident at Maidstone, when a French plane arriving from Paris crashed to the ground. One passenger, a Russian, was killed. The Americans were identified as Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Smith, who are suffering from cuts and bruises, and Albert M. Austin, who is unconscious from concussion and is being privately treated at West Malling. The aeroplane, which was a Farman Goliath, was flying to Crocydon from Paris.

DONAHEY REINSTATES MAYOR OF YOUNGSTOWN EARLY TUESDAY

JEFFERSON SCHOOL WILL OPEN MONDAY FOR FALL SESSION

The Jefferson Township School will open at Bowersville, Monday September 3, according to announcement of W. A. Driscoll, superintendent.

Pupils will attend only during the morning of the opening day and will be released at noon. The teaching staff will be divided as follows: unless the number enrolled necessitated further division: Grades 1 and 2—Miss Villa Glass; Grades 2 and 3—Miss Erma Glass; Grade 4—Miss Miranda Chidester; Grade 5—Miss Alta Turner; Grades 6 and 7—Miss Fern Campbell; Grades 7 and 8—Miss Audra Huffman; High School—science and mathematics, W. A. Driscoll; English and language, Miss Lelia Paulin; home economics and history, Miss Dorothy Conklin; music and manual arts, R. O. Copey.

A resolution requiring the reading of the Bible in each school room daily has been passed by the board of Education. It follows: Resolved, that, inasmuch as character is the most important product of the school and as the Bible contains the greatest characters in existence, we deem it advisable to require some portion of the Bible to be read in each room of our school each day of the school year.

A resolution was also adopted requiring that the school books be sold on a strictly cash basis. Pupils will bring used books they wish to dispose of the first day, in order that school authorities may know what books to order. There will be no changes in the text books.

All pupils between the ages of six and 16 are required by state law to attend school full time, according to Superintendent Driscoll. Children between 16 and 18 must attend if they have not passed the seventh grade and if the have completed that grade must secure a work certificate from the superintendent.

Parents and patrons are invited to attend the opening day.

FLIERS ATTEMPT TO SET NEW RECORDS

San Diego, Cal., Aug. 28.—At 9.54 o'clock, Captain Lowell Smith and Lieutenant John Richter passed the starting mark in their endurance flight for the 82nd time, a distance of 4,100 kilometers or 2,542 miles—farther than any aviator had ever before flown in one single flight.

They continued making new flying history at every lap.

The former world's long distance record of 4,090 kilometers was hung up at Dayton, O., last year by Lieutenants MacReady and Kelly.

DRAWS FORTY YEARS ON FORGERY CHARGE

Toledo, Aug. 28.—Forty years in the Ohio Penitentiary—twenty years on each of two counts charging forgery—was the sentence imposed in common pleas court today on James S. Richards by Judge Ritchie following his plea of guilty.

Richards had previously pleaded not guilty to passing a forged check for $9,875 on the Northern National Bank on July 16, but changed his mind late yesterday and confessed his guilt.

The man, also known as F. T. Cunningham is said to be wanted in a number of other cities on similar charges. Detroit authorities are said to have a charge against him of passing a worthless check upon a bank there upon which he realized $13,370.

KILLED BY TRACTION CAR

Layton, O., Aug. 28.—Miss Esther Johnson, 20, residing at Franklin was killed when struck by a traction car in Franklin. She was badly mangled, her body having been hurled 30 feet down an embankment.

GOVERNOR DECLARES REECE MADE REAL ATTEMPT TO ENFORCE LAWS

Action Comes as the Result of Hearings Conducted in Columbus Relative to Charges Involving Failure to Enforce Dry Laws

Columbus, Aug. 28.—Governor Donahy today re-instated William G. Reece as mayor of Youngstown and removed from office Chief of Police James Watkins. The governor's action is the result of hearings conducted before the governor relative to charges of nonfeasance and wilful neglect involving failure to enforce laws relating to intoxicating liquors.

"It is apparent to me from the evidence submitted by both sides that Mayor Reece made an honest effort to enforce the laws", said Governor Donahy. "In my opinion, the charges against Chief Watkins have been proven beyond a reasonable doubt. Therefore I remove him from the office of chief of police of Youngstown", the governor announced.

The governor's orders re-instating Mayor Reece and removing Chief Watkins are effective immediately.

The hearings concerning the charges against Mayor Reece and Chief Watkins involved testimony supporting allegations that anti-gambling and anti-vice laws also were not properly enforced at Youngstown.

"The evidence shows that Mayor Reece led raids independently of the chief of police and as a result, revoked the licenses of many soft drink establishments for violations of the law," said Governor Donahy. It was revealed by the testimony that in defiance of law and order, dens of vice sought to protect themselves against arrest by installing heavy, steel armored doors and iron bars in front of windows and over skylights.

"The chief of police and members of his force testified that they were unable to gain evidence of law violation against such places. Other agencies, however, gained entrance and obtained evidence. In this connection I desire to call attention to house bill 128 enacted at the last session of General Assembly of Ohio, which provides that places where prohibited laws are violated, may be enjoined by a court of equity on application of any law officer of any municipality. This law was enacted to reach such places as described above.

"In the trial of Watkins and Reece cases and interviews that I have had with mayors I have become convinced that the chief of police of a city should serve the will of the mayor, who is directly responsible to the people who elect him.

SECTION EMPLOYEE PROBABLY FATALY INJURED TUESDAY

George W. Slagle, 65, of 248 Chestnut street, section employee of the Pennsylvania Railroad, is in the Espey Hospital, suffering from injuries that may prove fatal sustained when a long wrench he was using Tuesday morning slipped, the end striking him in the right side of the head, and causing a fractured skull.

The accident happened about ten o'clock in the East End yards as Mr. Slagle was using the wrench to wind up the dump bottom on hopper car used for hauling coal. He was placed in a caboose and a yard engine brought the injured man to the hospital on orders from Dr. W. A. Galloway, railway surgeon, who had been called to the depot.

The wrench is a heavy iron instrument several feet long. When it slipped from his grasp the weight of the car bottoms caused the handle to be thrown back striking the trackman in the head. The heavy wrench cut the flesh on the cheek to the cheek bone, inflicted a fracture at the base of the skull, caused deep cuts on and near the ear and injured the cheek bone and other bones in the face.

Dr. Galloway, assisted by Dr. Paul Espey, operated immediately after the man was brought to the hospital but the surgeons held grave fears for his recovery. Mr. Slagle had been employed by the railroad for a number of years and was working for Patrick Cronin foreman.

COLUMBUS WOMAN KILLED

Columbus, O., Aug. 28.—Instant death of Mrs. Johanna Lamantia 54, Columbus, occurred here Monday when an automobile in which she was riding, with her husband, Samuel Lamantia and three of their children, skidded and overturned just north of the city limits in High street. A leg of one of the children was broken. Mrs. Lamantia's skull was fractured. The other occupants of the car were uninjured.

CHILD INJURED IN FALL FROM AUTO

The four-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Reed, of Muncie, Ind., who were motoring through to their home from the northern part of the state, received a severe scalp wound when she fell from her parents' automobile on the Dayton pike about two miles from Xenia Monday afternoon.

The car had been stopped and the child was standing up leaning against a door when the accident occurred. She was brought to the office of Drs. Finley and Finley and the family proceeded on its way after the wound had been given surgical attention. The wound is not serious.

PACIFIC FLAGSHIP AGROUND IN FOG

U.S.S. Seattle

The armored cruiser Seattle, flagship of the Pacific fleet, went ashore during a dense fog on a sandspit off Marrowstone Point, Puget Sound, Washington, but later was pulled off undamaged. Admiral H. E. Coontz, Commander of the United States Fleet, and Rear Admiral L. B. Gregory, Chief of the Naval Bureau of Yards and Docks, were on board.

MINERAL WATER AT SPRING VALLEY TO BE AGAIN BOTTLED

Incorporation papers have been granted in Columbus in the sum of $50,000 to The Spring Valley Mineral Water Co., of which Leroy Brower of Xenia is president.

The company, owns the property on which a well said to supply medicinal water is located on the Spring Valley and Bellbrook pike, near the Spring Valley Canning Company, and expects to bottle and sell the product like other medicinal waters now on the market.

Besides Mr. Brower, Mr. R. J. Stiles is vice president, Carl Smith, Xenia, is secretary and Adolph Moser, Xenia, treasurer. The board of directors includes Mr. Brower, Mr. Moser, W. P. Bentley, W. J. Kennedy, Lester Stiles, George Smith of Newcomerstown and P. S. Hudson of Spring Valley.

Building on the land purchased with the well includes a barn which will be converted into a bottling plant and a house which will be used as an office and residence for the manager.

The present attempt to reclaim the waters of the famous Spring Valley well recalls interesting history attached to the development of the water and its progress in past years. The water was first discovered accidentally on what was then the Isaac Barrett farm about 1886, while drillers were attempting to locate oil.

The drillers first struck artesian water containing peculiar magnetic qualities and said to have remedial qualities in cases of rheumatism at the depth of 50 feet. Closing out the artesian water with a casing they continued to the depth of 1,450 feet where the medicinal water showed a strong flow. They then abandoned their efforts to find oil and the salty taste of the water led to discovery of its medicinal properties.

The water attained considerable local reputation and the Berret family constructed a bath house there and exploited the water on a small scale. In addition to its value as an internal water it became reported that the water had healing qualities said to be due to the presence of iodine and it gained reputation as a healer of skin diseases.

It is said that many wealthy people sojourned then at the Xenia Hotel known also as the Valley House and drank the water. It was learned in this manner that the water was a reputed cure for asthma. On this basis a number of these men desired to organize to exploit the water but when they attempted to purchase the well found the price prohibitive.

Later the well fell into disuse and one, Todd Walton and William Fulkerson took it over and by using a hand pump with which they pumped three barrels a day they were able to keep up the name and reputation of the water by selling some. Pamphlets advertising the water were issued at that time and many testimonials received, some of which are still available.

The hand pumping method evidently resulted in abandonment of the well as a means of income for it was finally given up. Eventually the pump itself was broken and for years there was no water pumped whatever. George Smith of Newcomerstown then practicing law here and living in Spring Valley had the well recalled to him about two years ago, by a traveling salesman in his office.

The salesman said he had been benefitted by the water in 1905, when he claimed he spent three months at Spring Valley, using the water daily, until he was completely cured of asthma. On being told the well had fallen into disuse, he declared his intention of going to Spring Valley and obtaining an option on the well and land surrounding it. He did go to Spring Valley with that intention the following day, but found that Mr. Smith aroused by his remark had beat him to the option.

Mr. Smith, with P. S. Hudson and Merriek Dakin, began the operation of the well with a hand pump which they operated for a year in an attempt to reclaim the water. They found that the old casing was in disrepair and that the artesian water leaked into the casing. Finding their efforts futile they interested other people in the venture, and installed an electric force pump a year ago last March.

In the meantime they had difficulty in repairing the casing, which was finally effected so that the artesian water was kept from mingling with the medicinal water. The first pumping with the new pump brought dirty water that was not as strong in medicinal qualities as the original but constant pumping gradually produced the same water. The good water was struck last May and Dr. C. F. Adams, of Antioch college has since made a sanitary analysis of the water, which he found to be pure and is now working on the quantitative salt analysis. His report of the pure condition of the water has been accepted by the State Board of Health.

Later action resulted in the purchase of the well and the land surrounding it which will be beautified as parking grounds. In simple language the main medicinal qualities of the water are Glauber's Salts and Epsom Salts, two important salt properties, which make the water valuable for dyspepsia and constipation; iodine, which renders it a possible potent remedy, potassium, and a few other drugs, that are said would give it the properties for relieving asthma and hay fever.

It is planned to exploit the water under a trademarked name in its natural state, without the addition of any properties.

Others interested in the venture during the experimental period are Harry Schweibold, M. F. Jacoby and Merriek Dakin of this city.

MOSQUITO CONVENTION MEETS IN XENIA, AT LEAST THAT IS WHAT RESIDENTS OF SECTION NOW CLAIM

Thousands of delegates were here Monday to attend the opening session of the annual convention of the National Association for the Propagation and Advancement of Mosquitoes, which is being held at Dodds Park, North Detroit street.

Business and pleasure sessions are a part of the program arranged to entertain the delegates during their stay here. The entertainment features including aquatic sports on the swampy section in the Dodds Addition and night revelries during which those attending the convention will be entertained in many Xenia homes, especially those in the neighborhood, which have been thrown open for the accommodation of the visitors.

A technical address by the president, Alvin Sharphead, of New Jersey, on the encouraging advancement being made in the artificial production of rain by the distribution of electrified sand grains, by government aviators, marked the initial business session Monday after the registration of delegates. The address was followed by the passing of a resolution commending the government on its thoughtfulness and encouraging other steps toward elimination of a too dry world.

While the male delegates were being entertained at one session, wives of delegates and other women members among the visitors were attending a social gathering marked by an elaborate program. Miss Iva Longbill, secretary of the auxiliary, sang very prettily, the late song "You Bids Me and I'll Chase You." Mrs. G. Watt Teeth sang a solo in "A" sharp and followed it by a reading entitled, "The Scratching Blues."

Information leaked out of the convention Monday that a movement is on foot to encourage the increase of bald headedness. A report of the legal committee, which has been carrying on a fight with the pure food and drug department of the government to abolish what it claims to be useless hair restorers, led to the announcement of the new movement.

Continued rainfall Monday was welcomed by members of the organization, who decided to hold their convention here on information from the U. S. Weather Bureau that rains were expected. The meeting had originally been scheduled to be held in Washington C. H., where Paint Creek delegates cast a strong vote in favor of bringing the convention to that city.

Delegates say extremely hot and dry weather along the New Jersey coast had caused many of the members of the organization present to attend the convention here as an outing and relief from the city's weather conditions.

ARRANGEMENTS FOR PAGEANT ARE BEING MADE BY XENIAN

Miss Mary B. Ervin of North King street, world and national secretary of The Loyal Temperance Legion, children's branch of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, is in Columbus, making arrangements for the engagement of several hundred children for the demonstration and pageant to be given the week beginning September 7.

"The children's demonstration will take place on the afternoon of September 7, said Miss Ervin in Columbus. The title is, 'Our Nation's Builders,' and I am training 50 children for that. In the pageant we will have several hundred boys and girls in a historic street parade.

"This pageant will be called, 'The March of Allegiance' and will emphasize the sentiment for law enforcement in this we expect to have 500 children. Mrs. Ruth J. Worrell of Dayton, said Miss Ervin, will be in Columbus in a few days to complete plans for the street pageant 'The March of Allegiance' and I will assist her. We expect that to be a wonderful spectacle. The pageant will demonstrate Christian citizenship, child welfare, social morality, Americanization, women in industry, and other departments of W. C. T. U. work.

Miss Ervin in talking of her work in Columbus, said: "I have been in the national work since 1914, and prior to that was state secretary of children's work in Ohio for six years. This is the hardest time of the year to get children together. They are on their vacations, and many of them leave town with their parents. School will open about the time we have the convention, so that too will make it hard to hold the interest of the children. But even with such handicaps we expect a great pageant."

"Today there is a marvelous steady moral training going on in the ranks of the Loyal Temperance Legion under the leadership of consecrated womanhood. It is the one direct channel where the principles of the Women's Christian Temperance Union can be peculiarly instilled into the child life, and where future leadership is strongly developed. It offers a moral safeguarding and training second to none, and the mother organization that is true to its high calling, will find it possible to enlist boys and girls for The Loyal Temperance Legion and recruit them as national prohibition guards, thus promoting a movement of tremendous influence for good upon the life of the child today."

Nervous Ills Banished by Nerv-Worth
"For 25 years I was troubled with a nervous condition," said H. H. Riddle, 249 W. Spruce street, Washington, Pa., and he continues: "I lost weight and all about gone, and I have no further trouble with gas after eating. I tried various remedies, but got no relief. Nerv-Worth was recommended to me by so many who had used it. It helped me wonderfully, for my nervousness is all about gone, and I have no further trouble with my stomach or gas."

PRIZES OFFERED FOR DISPLAYS AT FAIR

During its existence the Ohio State Fair has achieved many distinctions and has succeeded in showing the way in many departments to other fairs in the country. Perhaps no achievement has been so satisfying as the Boys' and Girls' club work, which set a new record in point of entries and premiums in 1922. At this time $9,000 was offered in prizes, not including premiums amounting to $1,200 for city school garden work. This generous offering attracted the largest list of contestants ever to be entered on the books in Ohio.

Realizing that the future success and expansion of agriculture rests with the rising generation, Manager G. R. Lewis has increased the $9,000 to $11,550, and has advanced the city school garden department as well. All the classes in the junior department are exact duplicates on a modified scale of the senior competitions. In quality of the animals and exhibits they often equal those to be found in the open classes.

The Extension Department at the Ohio State University has contributed largely to the advancement of this phase of fair activity through its Boys' and Girls' Club Department. Every agricultural organization in the state champions the cause of the youngsters and their popularity is substantiated by the throngs that gather about their displays.

An entry of unusual interest was recently received by the Ohio State Fair management when the Elm Hill Farm of Brookfield, Mass., sent in papers for Perennial Lobellia. This animal, which is owned by O. W. Means, is an imported Jersey cow and was recently sold to Mr. Means for $6,500—the highest price of the year. Not only does the value of this cow attract attention, but her color, as well. She is pure black and white, a combination that is extremely rare in the Jersey breed.

NEW LIBERTY

The marriage of Mr. Clarence Gerlaugh to Jeanette Swerkings took place last Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock. Later in the evening a host of friends belted the bride and groom and wished them good luck. Refreshments were served and a jolly time followed. Mr. and Mrs. Gerlaugh will make their home in Marion, Ohio for the next six months where Mr. Gerlaugh is working on the Harding Hotel.

Last Wednesday evening Mr. Charles Miller was pleasantly surprised by many friends. The occasion being his birthday. The evening was spent in dancing. Lunch was served.

Mr. George Kemp and Mr. M. Croft have returned from a fishing trip at St. Marys.

Miss Dorothy Herzog is spending several weeks with her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Karl Zink.

Miss Saura Karnath has returned home after a delightful visit with her grandmother Mrs. Warner near Midway.

VEGETABLE TONIC IS BETTER THAN SODA FOR INDIGESTION

When your digestion isn't what it used to be—food sours on your stomach, causes heartburn and flatulency (belching of gas), when your tongue is coated and you feel uncomfortable after meals—quit taking soda or any of the drugs that ruin the lining of your stomach and never give you lasting relief.

Build yourself up! Take a delicious tablespoonful of Dr. Thacher's Liver and Blood Syrup after the next meal. Notice the quick improvement in your appetite and digestion. Dr. Thacher's is a purely vegetable tonic, delicious to take and ideally suited to the weakened stomach. It will not only improve your digestion, but will soothe and nourish the over-taxed nerves, wake up the sluggish liver, gently correct constipation, strengthen and invigorate your body and send purer, healthier blood coursing through your veins. It will re-waken that delightful feeling of strength, vigor, energy and "pep" and keep you feeling your best.

Share Dr. Thacher's with the family after the next few meals. The cost is only a trifle and your money will be returned without question if it fails to give complete satisfaction. Now sold in Xenia by Sayre & Hemphill and Sohn's Drug Store and in Jamestown by G. O. Carpenter. adv

OFFICERS OF GREENE COUNTY FARM BUREAU

Just as the Car Hit the Second Barrel.

Farm Bureau members in Massachusetts believe thoroughly in the old saying, "All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy." Accordingly, midsummer field days and picnics are the rule now in almost every county.

Three major field days were held recently. Hampden county led off with a big affair at Riverside park, Agawam. Middlesex secured the use of the beautiful Groton school grounds, and Worcester wound up the series by paying a visit to Fay Mountain Farm, Westboro.

Dr. W. H. Walker of California, vice president of the American Farm Bureau federation, was the principal speaker at each of these big gatherings.

Except for Dr. Walker's message, most of the time at these picnics was given over to recreation. In this respect, Middlesex took the lead. Its program included a horseshoe tournament for the men, a croquet tournament for the women, tug of war competitions between teams representing various towns, and last, but not least, an automobile race with women drivers. In this event the prize went to the one who drove through a lane of barrels in the shortest time without knocking one or more of them over.

In addition, there were the usual foot races, sack races, shoe scrambles, wheelbarrow races and relays. Other team events included a centipede race for men and a chariot race for girls. Five silken banners were awarded to the towns piling up the largest total of points.

In Hampden county the Granges combined with the Farm Bureau in helping to make the affair the biggest farmers' picnic ever held in western Massachusetts.

SPECIAL SERVICE IS PROMISED BY ROADS

Result of First Meeting of Farmers and Carriers.

Special service in transporting farm supplies has been guaranteed co-operative buying associations in the Eastern states by 12 big railroads as the result of a conference held between representatives of the roads and the farmers' organizations in Cleveland.

Eight co-operative associations distributing farm supplies in the East were represented, including the G. L. F. exchange, Eastern States Farmers' exchange, Pennsylvania Federation of Co-operatives, Maryland Agricultural corporation, West Virginia Co-operative association and the Farm Bureau federations of Ohio, Michigan and Indiana.

The movement of solid trainloads of supplies from the Mid-West to the East was promised the producers' associations. This type of service is now rendered packers and other big shippers of perishable products. The railroads represented were the New York Central, New Haven & Hartford, Pennsylvania, Erie, Boston & Albany, Nickel Plate, Peoria Belt line, Canadian Pacific, B. & O., Grand Trunk, Big Four and B. & M.

In commenting on the conference, H. E. Babcock, general manager of the G. L. F. exchange, declared: "The meeting brought together for the first time the carriers and the producers of the East. The attitude of the roads is one of co-operation. Their action in providing solid trainload service will mean lower costs of production in the East, for it will eliminate some of the unsatisfactory transportation conditions of the past, and it will permit the co-operative associations to furnish service of a high order to their members."

DIVERS SALVAGE $2,000,000 MORE GOLD FROM LAURENTIC

The third season of gold fishing in the hull of the liner Laurentic, torpedoed off the Irish coast seven years ago (has produced a catch of nearly $2,000,000.

The Treasury estimates that the close of the season leaves $6,000,000 in gold at the bottom of the ocean for the winter, which will be fished for next year.

The wrecked vessel, which lies only 120 feet below the surface, this year was worked harder than ever with a dozen marine divers below and sixty merchant marine seamen above. The yields of gold in previous seasons were $3,000,000 and 6,000,000 respectively.

The gold has not been raised in large amounts at a time, the average for a day's catch being only $7000, and on some days nothing at all. The gold is forwarded to the Bank of England and credited at the Treasury to the national account.

The men have been using a diving spear with a dial attached that shows whether the spear point is touching gold or a base metal such as iron. The clocklike dial is kept aboard the salvaging ship and is connected with a spear which is in the hands of the diver working ninety feet below the surface. The handle moves to the left of the zero mark when the spear is prodded against a piece of iron, copper or other metal; but when it touches gold the dial swings to the right. It veers further when it comes in contact with an eighteen-carat bar than when it touches one of nine carats.

The apparatus was brought to the attention of the Admiralty in 1920 by a college professor. Previous to that time the divers in three years of labor had recovered only 608 bars; but since the galvanometer was brought into use more than 1200 have been brought to the top.

The work of the divers, never very easy or safe, has been made harder by the activities of the hungry dogfish, which seem to think they are the watchdogs of the wreck. Each diver carries with him when he goes below a large knife as a protection against any fish that get too bold. Each man receives a thirty-second part of the treasure he recovers.

ENCOMIUM TO WORK

We remember reading, a few years ago, the advice of a celebrated Englishman, Lord Strathmore if our memory serves us right, for old age or his personal experience for it. "Ohr, just keep on working" was his prescription, and many others have found it a good rule.

We all here remember that our splendid citizen, the venerable James Jeffries, the cabinet maker, who recently left us, kept on cheerfully at his bench until near the century mark. Always in a good humor and full of the activities that make life worthwhile—even going to church and Sunday School to almost the very last.

We are led to this line of thought by the following article, which we find in an eastern paper just received.

"Patriarch of Bankers is the name they give to John A. Stewart, who at the age of 101 is still 'going strong' as chairman of the board of the United States Trust Company in New York. His birthday, which has just occurred, has been made the occasion of country-wide felicitation. He is the oldest graduate of Columbia University and at the call of Lincoln he served as Assistant Treasurer of the United States. So many years spent in fealty to a lofty ideal of personal responsibility set an example that is influential outside the confines of a man's own profession or of his immediate acquaintance."

Many indeed have found out too late that stopping work was a mistake. Perhaps all through life they had been fretting over their work and looking forward to the good time they were going to have when they quit it and retired. How many retired farmers have you and I known who sold the old farm and moved to town to live in ease as they proposed, who found leisure so irksome, so monotonous that they soon laid down and died. And not only farmers but active town folks, have found that cessation from work left them so miserable that they could not stand it. The law of nature is that a certain quantity of work is desirable.

True, in the case of the above quoted banker and in the case of many others, it may not be necessary save as self protection or self preservation. There are so many ill effects from idleness and work takes the mind from self, that therein lies the secret. Even to the studious, one often gets tired of reading and welcomes work.

Mrs. W. M. B.: "I recently saw in your column a 'hint' about removing chewing gum from clothing. I too have been annoyed by gum stuck to clothes, dishes and furniture, but have found that kerosene oil, applied with a small piece of cloth, is more effective than the ice which your column advised. Kerosene is also fine to use if one gets flypaper stuck to anything."

Answer: I think we have the latest set of readers that any column could possibly have. For busy housekeepers are continually taking the trouble to write in about things they have found helpful. I am sure we all thank you for this kerosene hint.

Mrs. A. M. B.: "I have been greatly interested in Efficient Housekeeping and I feel impelled to answer one of the questions recently published from a reader: 'How can one use the yolks of eggs without the whites?' Here is my way of using egg-yolks alone: Break them into a pan of cold water that can be put on the top of the stove, bring the water in the pan gradually to the boiling heat. Boil 20 minutes. These perfect little balls are not only fine for garnishing, but invalids can digest them when they cannot take the yolks raw. If the yolk is broken en before cooking, it cannot be used in this way."

Answer: I want to say, again, that I think we have very helpful housekeepers reading our column.

Miss M. F. C.: "Will you please name a few articles that would be appropriate to give in celebration of a Cotton Wedding the first anniversary?"

Answer: A small sewing basket filled with spools of thread; an apron; a dust cap; any article made of flowered cretonne—such as a bag, a sofa-cushion or a covered dresser-hanger; a braided rag rug; an unbleached muslin table runner, lunch-cloth or bureau scarf perhaps stenciled, perhaps worked all around with a simple scalloping, or finished with narrow cretonne bands stitched on.)

If the friend is very dear to you and you wish to give her an especially big present, why not work her one of the popular unbleached muslin bed spreads, using heavy white cotton in a design made entirely of large French knots?

Mother of Five: "I have heard of some sort of new sweater hanger, made of an embroidery hoop in

MR. BUTLER'S ACHES AND PAINS

Vanished After Using Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

W. Philadelphia, Pa.—"When I cleaned house last April I must have overfired, for after that I had pains and aches all the time and was so discouraged. I could hardly do my own housework, and I couldn't carry a basket of groceries from the store nor walk even four or five squares without getting terrible pains in my back and abdomen and lower limbs.

I went to visit a friend in Mt. Holly, N. J., and she said, 'Mrs. Butler, why don't you take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?' My husband said that if it did her so much good for the same trouble, I should try it. So I have taken it and it is doing me good. Whenever I feel heavy or bad, it puts me right on my feet again. I am able to do my work with pleasure and am getting strong and stout. I still take the Vegetable Compound and Liver Pills, and am using Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash."—Mrs. CHARLES BUTLER, 1223 S. H. Mason St., W. Philadelphia, Pa.

some way. Can you describe it?

Answer: Yes, and they are splendid for these new sweaters which are so loosely-knit that they stretch if hung from the shoulders. To make it wind an oval embroidery hoop with a strip of cretonne, sew a little tab of cretonne on one side put an ivory ring at top of this tab, to hook over a nail, and lay the sweater through the hoop.

MISS JOHANA LEMICH, COLUMBUS, O.

Miss Johana Lemich, 525 Short street, Columbus, O., is another user of Ka-di-ok who claims that her health has steadily improved since she first started taking it.

Miss Lemich was born in Hungary and speaks four languages—Slavish, German, Hungarian and English; she was formerly employed at Billows' Mattress Factory and is very well known here, especially among her own people. In a signed statement recently given to the Ka-di-ok expert, she said:

"My health was very poor, due to kidney trouble; I felt exhausted and played out; could not eat anything to speak of and was as nervous as could be. I have been taking Ka-di-ok for a few weeks and my health has shown steady improvement; have no bother with my kidneys; eat heartily and feel entirely well in every respect. Ka-di-ok helped me the first day I started taking it, and I am glad to recommend it."

Ka-di-ok is delicately adapted to stomach needs; it is purely vegetable and entirely free from narcotics or habit-forming drugs. Weak, run-down men and women will find Ka-di-ok highly beneficial.

Ka-di-ok can be had in Xenia at Sayre & Hemphill's Drug Store. adv

REST
Oh, it is sweet to romp in play
And from life's worries steal away.
'Tis good to lay the burden down
And cease to struggle for renown.
But oh, my boy, before your fun
You first must have your duty done.

'Tis sweet to rest and sweet to dream
Upon the banks of yonder stream:
'Tis good beneath a tree to lie
And build your castles in the sky.
But bitterly you'll rue the day
If you have shirked your task to play.

You cannot rest with easy mind
If care must follow on behind;
You cannot play with conscience clear
If want or shame is standing near.
By sorrow many men have learned
The right to pleasure must be earned.

'Tis sweet to play, but sweeter far
Those hours of ease and pleasure are
Which follow toil. The weary best
Enjoy their days of peace and rest
And he is never wholly gay
Who has not earned the right to play.

Today's Talk

VALUATIONS

We alone are the appraisers of our happiness. And this happiness is determined by the valuations we put upon the things that make life worth while—and even attemptable. When you place a false valuation on anything in life, it is like getting on the wrong road. Sooner or later you will have to inquire or pick out the way back to the right road.

In nature there are no false valuations. Worth is as it is. The average values make you an average man. But through striving for those things which at the time seem far out of your possible reach, your valuations on all effort—so that the trivial and unimportant become mere passing specks before a great vision and an unbeatable spirit.

Life seems to drop away at times, leaving us alone and stripped of all conceit and boast. It is then that we are able to find ourselves again, make up never and higher valuations, and return to the world from which we so suddenly fell—to walk with chin up and heart strong.

Everything that we attempt reflects our inward emotions and forms the fabric from which we weave the garment of our completed desire.

The world is constantly growing better to him who has formed the habit of placing a high valuation on human effort.

We can lose a great many times—and that quite seriously—if we have fortified ourselves against losses by valuations that are as tenfold assets against all liabilities.

Let the floods come! There is safety upon this high ground.

TENNESSEE BUREAU FORMALLY LAUNCHED; PROGRAM ADOPTED

At the state convention held in Nashville recently, a permanent state farm bureau federation was perfected and a program of work was adopted.

The convention was one of the most enthusiastic meetings held by a state farm bureau federation this year. Twenty-nine county farm bureaus united to make up the state organization. Nearly a dozen other counties were represented at the convention and sought information as to how to proceed in perfecting their own county bureaus. The group of counties already organized lie principally in middle and west Tennessee, although a few strong farm bureaus are located in the eastern part of the state. About 7,500 members are enrolled.

The convention at Nashville was addressed by President O. E. Bradford, Vice President W. H. Walker, Cooperative Marketing Director Walter Petet and E. P. Taylor of the American Farm Bureau federation.

Edward A. O'Neal, president of the Alabama Farm Bureau federation, gave a graphic account of the way his organization is co-operating with the counties in putting through an effective state program. A. E. Markham, president of the Tennessee Cotton Growers' association, pledged the co-operation of his organization with the state farm bureau federation. The Agricultural Extension service of the University of Tennessee is in hearty accord with the purpose and plans of the farm bureau in the state.

The constitution and by-laws of the Tennessee Farm Bureau federation were adopted. These provide for an executive committee of seven, with vice presidents from west Tennessee, middle Tennessee and east Tennessee, the three natural group divisions of the state.

J. F. Porter of Maury county, who has been the temporary president of the state organization and has guided the plans resulting in a permanent organization, was elected president. The constitution provides for a $10 membership fee, $6 of which stays in the county, $3.50 goes to the state, and 50 cents to the American Farm Bureau federation. Four outstanding projects were adopted in the state program of work.

The Tennessee strawberry pool will bring together the many successful co-operative shipping associations already organized in Tennessee. These will be grouped around three principal shipping districts—the Humboldt district for west Tennessee, Chattanooga for east Tennessee, and Bowling Green, Ky., to serve the strawberry growers of middle Tennessee. A state fertilizer pool will be brought together. A state lamb and wool pool will be perfected. Organization work, so as to add to the number of county farm bureaus, will be pushed in a number of new counties at once.

NURSES' TRAINING SCHOOL

Applications for enrollment in the September classes of the registered Training School of the Yonkers Homeopathic Hospital and Maternity should be filed with the superintendent as early as possible, as all applications must be forwarded to the State Board of Regents for approval.

The minimum educational requirements are one year of high school work or its equivalent. Preference will be given young women having had more advanced work.

Central Training Classes have been established for the preliminary course, as approved by the State Board, and are now held under a special instructor.

The new Nurses' Home, costing approximately $115,000 and accommodating 54 nurses, is nearing completion and will be ready for occupancy at the beginning of the Fall term.

The City of Yonkers, an attractive suburb of New York City is located on the east bank of the Hudson River, and has a population of over 100,000.

Our Hospital is open to the general practice of medicine and surgery of all schools. This one fact alone gives to its students in training a broad and unusual preparation for their life work. An affiliation with the Post Graduate Hospital of New York City for a course in special medical and surgical work, and at the Hospital for Communicable Diseases for a short course in contagion, makes the two and one-half years spent in training in this Hospital especially complete and most advantageous for all young women desiring to obtain the best possible preparation for the profession of the Trained Nurse.

The registration of the Training School, under the New York State Board of Regents, entitles its graduates to the degree of Registered Nurse (R. N.) without examination, if they so desire.

Many opportunities are open to such graduates, as Private and institutional, public health, Red Cross missionary, industrial office and hospital work as rapidly as possible, and administration work and teaching.

The Hospital is governed by the rulings of, and is approved by, the American College of Surgeons.

Plans are being perfected to double the capacity of the Hospital in order to meet the demands made upon it by the public for increased accommodations. This rapid increase in work forces us also to enlarge the membership in our Training School as rapidly as possible.

Imaginative Motor Pilots Show Wit On Spare Tire

Trick sayings of trite nature to adorn motor vehicles popularly termed flivvers compose an interesting out door sport now occupying attention.

Imaginative motor pilots conceive witticisms that are painted on the spare tire covers now much in vogue. The style, if such it be, was originally the brain child of some motor manufacturing advertising manager who suggested the use of the tire cover to slip in a good word in favor of the dear old bus.

Automobiles forced to take the dust of some gasoline chariot while they memorize until they can read backward some smart saying painted on the tire cover, are bound to have that little thought brought forcibly to their attention and impressed upon their minds very thoroughly.

It also furnishes a time-killer for the motorists forced to jockey along in the rear of the crowd. Although his sweet woman may have driven him from his favorite chair and his Sunday paper he may keep up his readings during the long afternoon, imbibing the brief literature on the back of passing machines.

Reading these tire covers has come to take the place of the old strap-hanger's pastime of getting his literary diversion and enjoying his fiction from the collar and pickle ads in the street cars. In other words the old fashioned commuter who used to put himself to sleep between the office and the house by reading about the values of some sort of breakfast food as a brain producer or the flappers who used to get a lot of innocent amusement out of comparing passengers with the statements in the ads directly over their heads, now find similar satisfaction in reading the rear end signs on the autos.

Signs like "Another Puddlebumper" or "Count the Lotholts." or "Yes, its a Mortgagemaker" were from the fruitful brains of the advertising men. But the movement has spread. Now every automobile owner buys a book of synonyms and sits up nights thinking up smart cracks to decorate his tire cover with. The result is amazing and furnishes one of the national peculiarities of this country.

Here are some gems. On the tire cover of a flivver touring car was this effort: "Why Girls Leave Home—right out bold like that. The car looked as if it would have more of a tendency to make the man who pays the garage bill leave home. Another flivver owner borrowed his wit saying by paraphrasing the Pal O'Mine that identified a large car. The flivver owner made it "Pest O'Mine" which shows he was a truthful and none the less inventive motorist.

Another flivver, disguised almost beyond recognition, bears this shot around the world: "Don't Rush this Can." And another was getting away with this inspiration to murder. "Yes, We Have No Packard." And so they go, vying with each other to see who can produce like the popular song writers, the most meaningless wisecrack.

Taking a cue from "Tad" the cartoonist, whose name is T. A. Doran, and who originated the "Yes, We Have No Bannana" line, the following is suggested for some motorists anxious to catch at the correct psychological complex: "Are olives different?"

DR. SCARBOROUGH RECEIVES MENTION IN MAGAZINE

Dr. W. S. Scarborough, president-emeritus of Wilberforce University, Greek scholar and author, is mentioned as a "Negro who is an intellectual, rather than as a Negro intellectual," in an article on "The Negro Problem as viewed by Negro Leaders" in the June issue of Current History.

The article was written by Abram L. Harris, a college graduate and frequent contributor to the negro press, and concerns the various movements for the advancement of the race. It is illustrated with photographs of colored leaders including a picture of Dr. Scarborough who is now connected with the U. S. Department of Agriculture at Washington D. C.

PAROCHIAL SCHOOL WILL OPEN ON SEPTEMBER 10

St. Brigid's Parochial grade and high school will open for the fall term, Monday, September 10, according to announcement made Sunday by the Rev. A. A. Burke, pastor. Members of the order of Sisters of Charity who compose the teaching staff at the school under the supervision of the Rev. Father Burke, have already arrived to make arrangements for the opening of the school term.

DEFER ACTION ON INCREASE IN PAY

Columbus, O. Aug. 28—The State Board of Control today deferred action relative to the request of State Welfare Director Harper for $171,000 as increased pay for 1,359 guards of state institutions. This amount represents a 20 per cent boost in wages.

The postponement was made in order that State Senator J. F. Atwood, Columbus, chairman of the Senate finance committee, and member of the control board, could attend a meeting of the board later this week when action is expected to be taken. The meeting, it was stated, will be held before August 31 on which date 40 guards at the State Penitentiary have threatened to quit, unless their pay is increased.

JUDGE SATER TELLS WHY BOND REFUSED

Columbus, O. Aug. 28—"Bank defalcations should not be permitted to become a habit, or epidemic," Federal Judge Sater declared here in a statement explaining why he rejected the $30,000 bond offered for the release of Fred W. Hecht, Dayton, alleged embezzler of over $300,000 of the funds of the American National Bank and Trust Company, Dayton.

"Only one of the bondsmen, Philip Haas, is, in my opinion, surmountably qualified, with $40,000, the real estate listed above his liabilities," continued Judge Sater. The other ten bondsmen listed only $20,000 in excess of their liabilities.

"I do not think a bond of $50,000 would be excessive under the circumstances."

Railroad Progress In the United States

THE GREAT era of railroad progress in the United States was the period prior to the development of regulation in its manifold modern forms. "Regulation with teeth" had its rise in the early part of the present century. Before that time the railroads were conspicuous as leaders of the country's advancement. They kept not merely abreast but ahead of the nation's needs and had a reserve capacity to take care of boom periods and extraordinary demands.

Since the advent of "toothed" regulation—which really means the transfer of the powers of management to governmental agencies—this condition has been steadily altering and has finally been completely reversed. Today the capacity of the railroads lags behind the nation's needs—checking instead of facilitating general progress. In late years the gap has been increased to a marked degree.

There is only one remedy—to attract more capital into the railroads. There is only one sound way to bring that about—to make railroading a profitable industry once more. Ability to earn profits is the only basis of credit in any business—including the business of railroading.

The Pride of Ownership

in an older home made new is oftentimes greater than in one of more recent construction.

So charming—and so practical have been the appointments incorporated into the plans of the present-day home, that without them, one feels the lack of convenience and refinement of an attractive interior.

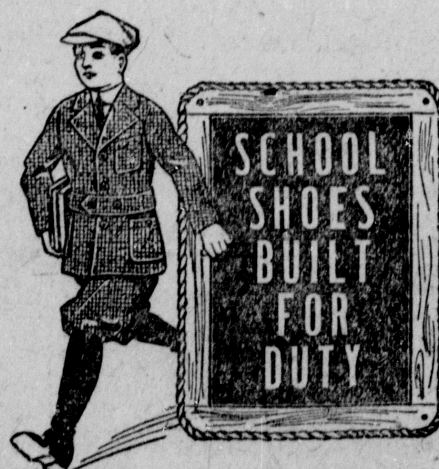

Practical make the modernizing of an old home Wallboards so easy—and the cost of such an improvement is surprisingly moderate.

Oak Floors over the old ones seem magic in the charming interior they tend to create. No other feature lends so much to the attractiveness of a home—nor increases the property value to so great an extent. Costly? not at all. CONFERENCE YEAR ENDS; EIGHTEEN MEMBERS TAKEN IN

Eighteen new members of Trinity Methodist Episcopal Church were taken in Sunday at ceremonies that marked the close of the conference year.

Fourteen of the new members were received into full membership after the usual probationary period while four were people who had their letters transferred from some other congregation.

A report of the financial standing of the congregation during the fiscal year will be made at the West Ohio Conference which opened in Marion, Ohio Tuesday, by the Rev. V. F. Brown, pastor.

The Rev. Dr. Brown left for Marion Tuesday morning. The conference will be in session a week and there will be no services other than Sunday School at the church next Sunday. The Rev. G. A. Scott, pastor of the First M. E. Church, also went to Marion Tuesday to attend the conference.

Both ministers are expected to be returned to the local pastorates during the annual re-assignment of ministers that will feature the conference.

Styles BY LENORE

With the first glimmering of autumn one of the most pronounced fashions to be noted is the persistent display of striped topcoats. But how dry and common place it sounds to speak of these beautiful wraps as merely "striped" coats, for the tinge in no degree gives the slightest hint of the subtle blending of tones, the satisfying qualities of the dull reds and greens and yellows, the browns that are like autumn leaves seen through the clear waters of a brook. That is why these coats are more than utility coats, although they have the protective qualities of a utility wrap. And that is why they bid fair to go far in their fashion career as coats for street wear as well as for travel.

The model illustrated in the sketch, in two tones of brown with a suggestion of red, is but one of the many designs to be seen in exclusive New York shops. One of the conspicuous examples of this new kind of coat is three-quarters length, flaring below the knee, and cut somewhat like an English raincoat. Another, a full length model, has a straight silhouette, and fastens at the side with a single magnificent bone button. There are wide revers and a rolling collar, edged with a narrow strip of perforated patent leather and a half-inch fringe of fur.

It takes a figure of fine proportions to wear these coats well.

Miss L. Shields Tells How Cuticura Healed Pimples

"My trouble began by little, red spots appearing under the skin and then broke out with pimples. The pimples were large and red, and later festered. My face was almost covered with them, and they itched and burned causing me to scratch. At night I could not sleep well. The trouble lasted about a year. "I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment and they afforded relief in a few days. I continued using them and was completely healed after using three cakes of Cuticura Soap and three boxes of Cuticura Ointment." (Signed) Miss Lillie Shields, Star Rt., Buena Vista, Ohio. "Daily use of Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Talcum helps to prevent skin troubles. Samples Free by Mail. Address: "Cuticura Laboratories, Dept. B, Malden 48, Mass." Sold every where. A WIFE'S STORY

By Jane Phelps

Chapter XII

It is hard to believe the things I did in those dark days of semi-poverty. The straits I was put to to keep up appearances. It would have been far easier for me had we frankly acknowledged our inability to keep up the same style of living as we had before Paul's money had flown. I did the housework, cared for the children, sewed, made over until the original dress or hat had disappeared in the process. Paul was as critical of my appearance as ever, demanding that I look well. Yet only occasionally did he give me any money.

I implored him to give up the house, take a small apartment where the work would be lighter, our expenses less. But in vain.

"Stop fretting at me," he would say querulously. "I'll find something suitable soon."

He managed in some way to pay the tradesmen enough so they let us have what we needed to live, yet they were never paid up; never were we out of debt to them. At times I trusted the landlord had to wait for the rent. But in some way he pacified him, and we remained in the house. I should have been more insistent in my demand that we move. But we owned nothing, save the two cribs for the children. We would have to spend considerable to make an apartment livable.

One day I was looking over the advertisements in the morning paper when my attention was caught.

Paul was advertising his rooms in town. He was giving them up at last. The furniture was offered for sale.

That night, after telling him I had seen the advertisement, I again begged him to give up the house, keep the furniture, and take a small inexpensive flat in a quiet and cheap locality.

"I need money. I shall sell that furniture," he told me.

"But you won't get a great deal for it, and think of the rent we would save," I replied. "The work here is too heavy for me," I pleaded. "I feel frightened sometimes, fear I shall become ill. I am so tired all the time." I never pleaded the care of the children as a reason for exhaustion.

"I tell you I need money! Must have it, so there's no use wasting your breath talking. You let the maid go—I had nothing to do with it. If you didn't want to do the work you should have kept her."

"Maid do not work for nothing, and I had no money to pay her," I replied.

Paul made no answer. The next night he did come home, but the following day he came early, and gave me some money. He was in good spirits, telling me I worried over nothing. He also played with Joan, something he seldom did. Usually he scarcely noticed her, never spoke of Laura unless she annoyed him.

My children were my greatest, almost my only happiness. Joan was a gay, irresponsible little creature, independent, full of high spirits, a favorite with everyone. She was strong and healthy, so I perhaps did not give her the attention I should. Laura was frail, fretful, very dependent. As she grew older she was very quiet, cared little to play with other children, and clung closely to me.

Perhaps because of my withdrawal from our friends, Paul too had ceased to care about meeting them, or visiting them. Very occasionally we would spend an evening with the Markhams, but I noticed a difference in George's manner toward Paul. He was always polite, but the old warm friendliness was gone. To me he was the same as ever. I wondered if he knew something of Paul that had changed his feeling toward him yet I never dreamed of anything more serious than that we were in debt; that Paul was careless of his bills. To a man like George Markham, this would be cause for cessation of intimacy.

But Evelyn never failed me. She visited me constantly, took the children to ride when I was busy so relieving me. How I should have got through those years without her I do not know.

Laura was five, Joan seven, when brother Tom again came East and spent a few days with me.

HUSBAND SOUGHT IN MYSTERY CASE

Battle Creek, Mich., Aug. 28.—Authorities abandoned their theory that G. Mackay Price, sought in connection with the death of his bride, had committed suicide. Price is alleged to have shot and killed his young wife after she refused to discuss his charges that she had been untrue to him.

"You wouldn't dare to shoot me," Mrs. Price is said to have taunted her husband when he threatened to kill her. Price, according to his sister-in-law, Mrs. L. J. Zopp, fired five bullets from a rifle into his wife's body. The alleged slayer then went to a neighbor's house and asked for a gun with which to kill himself. His request refused, he returned to his own home, washed his clothes and disappeared.

DENTIST SLAIN

Cleveland, Aug. 28.—The body of Horace W. Hamilton, his face badly mutilated, was found at the foot of an outside stairway leading to the basement of Public hall here. His hands were marked with knife cuts and in one of them was clenched an open jack knife. Police believe he was attacked and dragged to the foot of the stairway. Hamilton, a dentist, was employed in a laboratory here. A negro suspect is under arrest.

GOVERNOR DONAHEY OUSTS CHIEF OF POLICE FOLLOWING CAPITAL HEARING

THINK PINCHOT'S PLAN TO AVERT STRIKE. SUCCESS

Obtaining of Small Wage Increase Will Solve Problem

ABOLISH CHECKOFF Common Ground for Arbitration is Now Being Sought

Harrisburg, Pa., August 28.—Having delivered his no-strike ultimatum to the anthracite operators and miners in true Rooseveltian fashion Governor Pinchot today settled down to the task of providing a common ground of settlement upon which both parties may stand without loss of prestige or honor.

At nine this morning, the governor entered into executive session with the operating group. At two this afternoon, he will continue his conference of yesterday with the miners.

From sources exceedingly close to the chief executive of the commonwealth of Pennsylvania came the report that Pinchot is most hopeful of averting a shutdown in the hard coal fields on September 1.

This is to be accomplished, it was stated, by securing for the miners a small wage increase and by assuring the operators that the fight for the checkoff system will be abandoned.

Reports have poured into the governor's office from investigators in the field that the miners are not anxious to strike that they would be satisfied with a small increase in pay and that they have no real interest in the checkoff—in some cases even being antagonistic to its adoption.

Armed with these reports, it is understood Pinchot plans to get from the miners the minimum wage in crease which they would consider and submit it to the operators with a definite understanding that the checkoff question would "not" be pressed any further.

The impression created by Governor Pinchot yesterday was distinctly favorable. Miners and operators alike emerged from their first day at the state capital with an added respect for the sincerity and determination of the man who is attempting to accomplish what his government has failed to do.

The operators at their closed session with the governor this morning were prepared to state their willingness to submit every point of difference to arbitration. Samuel D. Warriner, spokesman for the mine operators before being pledged to silence yesterday by Pinchot, declared: "The operators will tell Governor Pinchot that they are willing to arbitrate all eleven questions, even the checkoff."

RECORD CROWD AT OHIO STATE FAIR

Columbus, August 28.—Despite a second cloudy and overcast day, with showers promised by the weatherman, Ohio State fair officials today were expecting another record breaking crowd with the addition of three events, a baby show, bait casting tournament and mile exhibition race by the world's champion pacing gelding Sandro, driven by the veteran Pop Geers to the day's program.

With 51,558 visitors at the Buckeye state's greatest exposition yesterday, the largest opening day attendance in the 73 years of the fair's existence was registered.

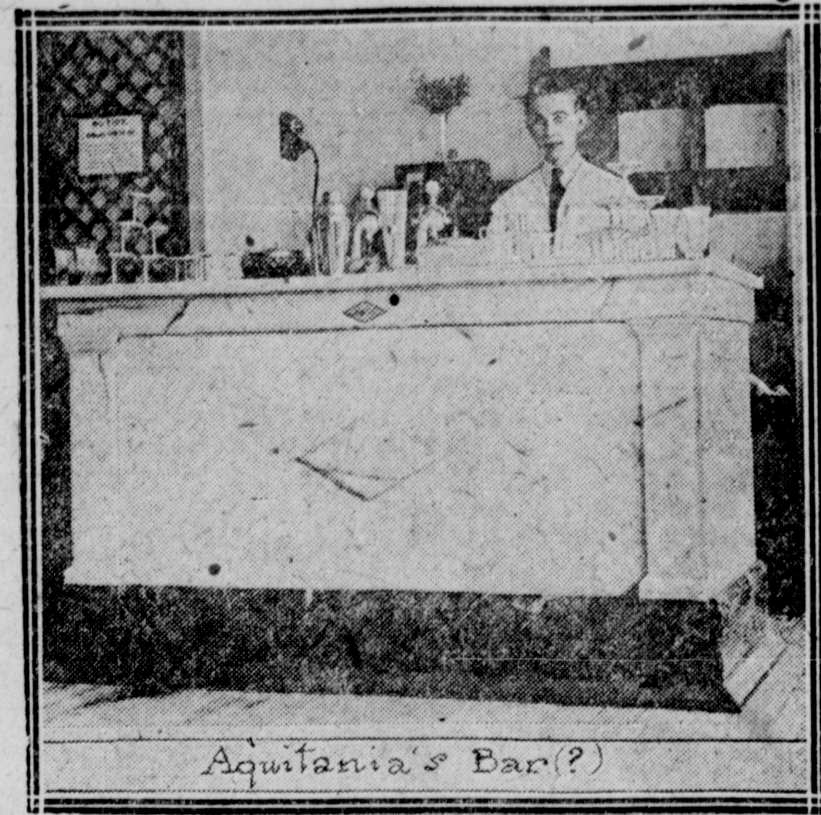

FREE STATE MAKES ELECTION SWEEP

Dublin, Aug. 28.—Indications this evening were that the Free State candidates had made a clean sweep in the first general election held yesterday. Election of Wm. T. Cosgrave, of the Dail Eireann, is assured. Cosgrave's brother, Philip, also was elected to the Dail. Prof. McNeill, of the boundary commission was elected by the national university constituency.

The Countess Markiewicz was the only Republican candidate leading in the Dublin district.

President O'Scraigh and a party of Irish officials are expected to leave for Rome in a few days. They will visit the Vatican.

OH, SEE WHAT MR. VOLSTEAD HAS DONE!

Who'd ever have thought it? When the huge Cunarder Aquitania sailed out of the more-or-less-dry port of New York, on her homeward journey, her 'bar' was open; but it might as well have been a sandbar, for it was only an American-made soda-water fountain, where the drugstore cowboys could order all kinds of sundaes and things—but nothing with more than one-half per cent alcoholic content. On her westbound voyages, the Aquitania can carry real 'fixer' but not when she sails from America on her eastward voyages.

NAME C. A. WEAVER COUNTRY CLUB HEAD

C. A. Weaver was elected president of the Xenia Country Club at a special meeting of the board of directors of the organization held Monday night.

Mr. Weaver will succeed J. E. Kelly, who resigned when he became professional at the Miami Valley Golf Club, Dayton. The position has since been vacant.

Mr. Weaver has been a member of the board of Directors. He will serve as president the balance of the unexpired term. All new officers will be elected in November.

EIGHT WORKERS ARE BURIED IN CAVE-IN

Baltimore, Md., Aug. 28.—Eight men were buried beneath hundreds of tons of sand and dirt when an embankment at Carey and Fink Streets, in the excavation for the colored high school, caved in shortly before noon today.

Five of the men buried were rescued by firemen and police. They were taken to the Colonial Hospital.

FIRE BREAKS OUT IN U. S. CAPITOL

Washington, Aug. 28.—Fire of undetermined origin broke out in the basement of the United States Capitol early today, but was extinguished before it spread to other parts of the building. Hundreds of gallons of water were poured into the basement and the flames confined to a room in which was stored cordwood used in fireplaces in the senate office building. There was no estimate of the damage.

FINDER OF GOLD DISAPPEARS: U. S. WOULD SEIZE IT

Workman Uncovers Tin Box Said to Contain Over $100,000

BERGDOLL SAYS HIS Declares He Buried Money But Renounces All Claims

Washington, Aug. 28.—If the money, said to be $100,000 in gold, found near Hagerstown, Md., should prove to be the property of Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, the United States government will seek to obtain possession of it, Alien Property Custodian Miller said, and added:

"In May, 1921, when the alien property custodian seized the property of Bergdoll, in response to President Harding's orders, it was done within the scope of the trading with the enemy act. The seizure of the Bergdoll property has been successfully defended by the government in all court actions brought so far.

"Under the Knox-Porter peace resolution, adopted July 2, 1921, a provision was contained therein that any demand made by the government through the alien property custodian, covering enemy property, was in full force and effect for property that had not been actually reduced to possession, even though a state of peace existed by reason of the resolution.

"The demands served on banks, Mrs. Bergdoll and other individuals known to have Bergdoll's property, would cover the so-called sum of money which Bergdoll was reported to have hidden in the vicinity of Hagerstown.

"Arrangements have been made with William J. Burns, chief of the bureau of investigation, department of justice, for agents well versed and experienced in the Bergdoll case to investigate the whole occurrence in the vicinity of Hagerstown."

According to reports reaching here from Hagerstown, Lee Houser, finder of the money, has disappeared. At his house it was said he had "gone fishing," but no information as to his definite whereabouts was obtainable. Houser unearthed the money while working on the highway.

A secret passage leading from the room which Bergdoll occupied at the Vivian hotel here was discovered for the first time. It probably explains how the draft dodger was able to make his second escape when the hotel was surrounded by federal agents.

Houser, according to the story reaching here, was helping to widen a road around Hagerstown on Thursday when his pick struck a tin box.

Looking down he saw a $10 gold piece. He picked that up hastily and then the tin box, filled with similar coins that his pick upturned. He immediately left for his home with the money and later announced he had found $100,000. Monday he is said to have told that in reality there had been $110,000 in the tin box, most of it in bills of a larger denomination.

Houser it is said, has expressed his willingness to give up the money to whoever can prove their claim for it.

HONOLULU AS AVIATION CENTER

London, Aug. 28.—A dispatch from Sydney, New South Wales, says the Pan-Pacific science congress discussed a proposal to make Honolulu the Pacific aviation center, communicating with North and South America, Japan and Australia. The reports of experts said that from Honolulu it is possible to reach the United States in 52 flying hours, Japan 72 hours, Australia 112 hours and South America 133 hours.

THREE AMERICANS INJURED

London, Aug. 28.—Three Americans were injured in an aeroplane accident at Maidstone, when a French plane arriving from Paris crashed to the ground. One passenger, a Russian, was killed. The Americans were identified as Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Smith, who are suffering from cuts and bruises, and Albert M. Austin, who is unconscious from concussion and is being privately treated at West Malling. The aeroplane, which was a Farman Goliath, was flying to Croydon from Paris.

DONAHEY REINSTATES MAYOR OF YOUNGSTOWN EARLY TUESDAY

JEFFERSON SCHOOL WILL OPEN MONDAY FOR FALL SESSION

The Jefferson Township School will open at Bowersville, Monday September 3, according to announcement of W. A. Driscoll, superintendent.

Pupils will attend only during the morning of the opening day and will be released at noon. The teaching staff will be divided as follows unless the number enrolled necessitated further division: Grades 1 and 2—Miss Villa Glass; Grades 2 and 3—Miss Erma Glass; Grade 4—Miss Miranda Chidester; Grade 5—Miss Alta Turner; Grades 6 and 7—Miss Fern Campbell; Grades 7 and 8—Miss Audra Huffman; High School—science and mathematics, W. A. Driscoll; English and language, Miss Lella Paulin; home economics and history, Miss Dorothy Conklin; music and manual arts, R. O. Gorsey.

A resolution requiring the reading of the Bible in each school room daily has been passed by the board of Education. It follows: Resolved, That, inasmuch as character is the most important product of the school and as the Bible contains the greatest characters in existence, we deem it advisable to require some portion of the Bible to be read in each room of our school each day of the school year.

A resolution was also adopted requiring that the school books be sold on a strictly cash basis. Pupils will bring used books they wish to dispose of the first day, in order that school authorities may know what books to order. There will be no changes in the text books.

All pupils between the ages of six and 16 are required by state law to attend school full time, according to Superintendent Driscoll. Children between 16 and 18 must attend if they have not passed the seventh grade and if the have completed that grade must secure a work certificate from the superintendent.

Parents and patrons are invited to attend the opening day.

FLIERS ATTEMPT TO SET NEW RECORDS

San Diego, Cal., Aug. 28.—At 9.54 o'clock, Captain Lowell Smith and Lieutenant John Richter passed the starting mark in their endurance flight for the 82nd time, a distance of 4,100 kilometers or 2,542 miles—farther than any aviator had ever before flown in one single flight.

They continued making new flying history at every lap.

The former world's long distance record of 4,090 kilometers was hung up at Dayton, O., last year by Lieutenants MacReady and Kelly.

DRAWS FORTY YEARS ON FORGERY CHARGE

Toledo, Aug. 28.—Forty years in the Ohio Penitentiary—twenty years on each of two counts charging forgery—was the sentence imposed in common pleas court today on James S. Richards by Judge Ritchie following his plea of guilty.

Richards had previously pleaded not guilty to passing a forged check for $9,875 on the Northern National Bank on July 16, but changed his mind late yesterday and confessed his guilt.

The man, also known as F. T. Cunningham is said to be wanted in a number of other cities on similar charges. Detroit authorities are said to have a charge against him of passing a worthless check upon a bank there upon which he realized $13,370.

KILLED BY TRACTION CAR

Layton, O., Aug. 28.—Miss Esther Johnson, 20, residing at Franklin was killed when struck by a traction car in Franklin. She was badly mangled, her body having been hurled 30 feet down an embankment.

GOVERNOR DECLARES REECE MADE REAL ATTEMPT TO ENFORCE LAWS

Action Comes as the Result of Hearings Conducted in Columbus Relative to Charges Involving Failure to Enforce Dry Laws

Columbus, Aug. 28.—Governor Donahey today reinstated William G. Reece as mayor of Youngstown and removed from office Chief of Police James Watkins. The governor's action is the result of hearings conducted before the governor relative to charges of nonfeasance and wilful neglect involving failure to enforce laws relating to intoxicating liquors.

"It is apparent to me from the evidence submitted by both sides that Mayor Reece made an honest effort to enforce the laws," said Governor Donahey. "In my opinion, the charges against Chief Watkins have been proven beyond a reasonable doubt. Therefore, I remove him from the office of chief of police of Youngstown," the governor announced.

The governor's orders reinstating Mayor Reece and removing Chief Watkins are effective immediately.

The hearings concerning the charges against Mayor Reece and Chief Watkins involved testimony supporting allegations that anti-gambling and anti-vice laws also were not properly enforced at Youngstown.

"The evidence shows that Mayor Reece led raids independently of the chief of police and as a result, revoked the licenses of many soft drink establishments for violations of the law," said Governor Donahey. It was revealed by the testimony that in defiance of law and order, dens of vice sought to protect themselves against arrest by installing heavy, steel armored doors and iron bars in front of windows and over skylights.

"The chief of police and members of his force testified that they were unable to gain evidence of law violation against such places. Other agencies, however, gained entrance and obtained evidence. In this connection I desire to call attention to house bill 128 enacted at the last session of General Assembly of Ohio, which provides that places where prohibitive laws are violated, may be enjoined by a court of equity on application of any law officer of any municipality. This law was enacted to reach such places as described above.

"In the trial of Watkins and Reece cases and interviews that I have had with mayors I have become convinced that the chief of police of a city should serve the will of the mayor, who is directly responsible to the people who elected him.

George W. Slagle, 65, of 248 Chestnut street, section employee of the Pennsylvania Railroad, is in the Espey Hospital, suffering from injuries that may prove fatal sustained when a long wrench he was using Tuesday morning slipped, the end striking him in the right side of the head, and causing a fractured skull.

The accident happened about ten o'clock in the East End yards as Mr. Slagle was using the wrench to wind up the dump bottom on hopper car used for hauling coal. He was placed in a caboose and a yard engine brought the injured man to the hospital on orders from Dr. W. A. Gallows, railway surgeon, who had been called to the depot.

The wrench is a heavy iron instrument several feet long. When it slipped from his grasp the weight of the car bottoms caused the handle to be thrown back striking the trackman in the head. The heavy wrench cut the flesh on the cheek to the cheek bone, inflicted a fracture at the base of the skull, caused deep cuts on and near the ear and injured the cheek bone and other bones in the face.

Dr. Galloway, assisted by Dr. Paul Espey, operated immediately after the man was brought to the hospital but the surgeons hold grave fears for his recovery. Mr. Slagle had been employed by the railroad for a number of years and was working for Patrick Cronin foreman.

COLUMBUS WOMAN KILLED

Columbus, O., Aug. 28.—Instant death of Mrs. Johanna Lamantia 54, Columbus, occurred here Monday when an automobile in which she was riding, with her husband, Samuel Lamantia and "three" of their children, skidded and overturned just north of the city limits in High street. A leg of one of the children was broken. Mrs. Lamantia's skull was fractured. The other occupants of the car were uninjured.

MINERAL WATER AT SPRING VALLEY TO BE AGAIN BOTTLED

Incorporation papers have been granted in Columbus in the sum of $50,000 to The Spring Valley Mineral Water Co., of which Leroy Brower of Xenia is president.

The company, owns the property on which a well said to supply medicinal water is located on the Spring Valley and Bellbrook pike, near the Spring Valley Canning Company, and expects to bottle and sell the product like other medicinal waters now on the market.

Besides Mr. Brower, Mr. R. J. Stiles is vice president, Carl Smith, Xenia, is secretary and Adolph Moser, Xenia, treasurer. The board of directors includes Mr. Brower, Mr. Moser, W. P. Bentley, W. J. Kennedy, Lester Stiles, George Smith of Newcomerstown and P. S. Hudson of Spring Valley.

Building on the land purchased with the well includes a barn which will be converted into a bottling plant and a house which will be used as an office and residence for the manager.

The present attempt to reclaim the waters of the famous Spring Valley well recalls interesting history attached to the development of the water and its progress in past years. The water was first discovered accidentally by one what was then the Isaac Barrett farm about 1856, when the driller was attempting to locate oil.

The driller first struck artesian water containing peculiar magnetic qualities and said to have remedial qualities in cases of rheumatism at the depth of 50 feet. Closing out the artesian water with a casing they continued to the depth of 1450 feet where the medicinal water showed a strong flow. They then abandoned their efforts to find oil and the salty taste of the water led to discovery of its medicinal properties.

The water attained considerable local reputation and the Barrett family constructed a bath house there and exploited the water on a small scale. In addition to its value as an internal cure it became reported that the water had healing qualities said to be due to the presence of iodine and it gained reputation as a healer of skin diseases.

It is said that many wealthy people sojourned then at Zimmerman's hotel known also as the Valley House and drank the water. It was learned in this manner that the water was a reputed cure for asthma. On this basis a number of these men desired to organize her to exploit the water but when they attempted to purchase the well found the price prohibitive.

Later the well fell into disuse and out and Todd Walton and William Fulkerson took it over and by using a hand pump with which they pumped three barrels a day they were able to keep up the name and reputation of the water by selling some. Pamphlets advertising the water were issued at that time and many testimonials received, some of which are still available.

The hand pumping method evident in the abandonment of the well as a means of income for it was finally given up. Eventually the pump itself was broken and for years there was no water pumped whatever. George Smith of Newcomerstown then practicing law here and living in Spring Valley had the well recalled to him about two years ago, by a traveling salesman in his office.

The salesman said he had been benefited by the water in 1905, when he claimed he spent three months at Spring Valley, using the water daily, until he was completely cured of asthma. On being told the well had fallen into disuse, he declared his intention of going to Spring Valley and obtaining an option on the well and land surrounding it. He did go to Spring Valley with that intention the following day, but found that Mr. Smith aroused by his remark had beat him to the option.

Mr. Smith, with P. S. Hudson and Merrick Dakin, began the operation of the well with a hand pump which they operated for a year in an attempt to reclaim the water. They found that the old casing was in disrepair and that the artesian water leaked into the casing. Finding their efforts futile they interested other people in the venture, and installed an electric force pump a year ago last March.

In the meantime they had difficulty in repairing the casing, which was finally effected so that the artesian water was kept from mingling with the medicinal water. The first pumping with the new pump brought dirty water that was not as strong in medicinal qualities as the original but constant pumping gradually produced the same water. The good water was struck last May and Dr. C. E. Adams, of Antioch college has since made a sanitary analysis of the water, which he found to be pure and is now working on the quantitative salt analysis. His report of the pure condition of the water has been accepted by the State Board of Health.

Later action resulted in the purchase of the well and the land surrounding it which will be beautified as parking grounds. In simple language the main medicinal qualities of the water are Glauber's Salts, and Epsom Salts, two important salt properties, which make the water valuable for dyspepsia and constipation, iodine, which renders it a possible goitre remedy, potassium, and a few other drugs, that are said would give it the properties for relieving asthma and hay fever.

It is planned to exploit the water under a trademarked name in its natural state, without the addition of any properties.

Others interested in the venture during the experimental period are Harry Schweibold, M. F. Jacoby and Merrick Dakin, of this city.

MOSQUITO CONVENTION MEETS IN XENIA, AT LEAST THAT IS WHAT RESIDENTS OF SECTION NOW CLAIM

Thousands of delegates were here Monday to attend the opening session of the annual convention of the National Association for the Propagation and Advancement of Mosquitoes, which is being held at Dodds Park, North Detroit street.

Business and pleasure sessions are a part of the program arranged to entertain the delegates during their stay here. The entertainment features including aquatic sports on the swampy section in the Dodds Addition and night revivies during which those attending the convention will be entertained in many Xenia homes, especially those in the neighborhood, which have been thrown open for the accommodation of the visitors.

A technical address by the president, Alvin Sharpbeak, of New Jersey, on the encouraging advancement being made in the artificial production of rain by the distribution of electrified sand grains by government aviators, marked the initial business session Monday after the registration of delegates. The address was followed by the passing of a resolution commending the government on its thoughtfulness and encouraging other steps toward elimination of a too dry world.

While the male delegates were being entertained at one session, wives of delegates and other women members among the visitors were attending a social gathering marked by an elaborate program. Miss Iva Longbill, secretary of the auxiliary, sang very prettily, the late song "You Bitch Me and I'll Chase You." Mrs. G. Watt Teeth sang a solo in "A" sharp and followed it by a reading entitled, "The Scratching Blues."

Information leaked out of the convention Monday that a movement is on foot to encourage the increase of bald headedness. A report of the legal committee, which has been carrying on a fight with the pure food and drug department of the government to abolish what it claims to be useless hair restorers, led to the announcement of the new movement.

Continued rainfall Monday was welcomed by members of the organization, who decided to hold their convention here on information from the U. S. Weather Bureau that rains were expected. The meeting had originally been scheduled to be held in Washington C. H., where Paint Creek delegates cast a strong vote in favor of bringing the convention to that city.

Delegates say extremely hot and dry weather along the New Jersey coast had caused many of the members of the organization present to attend the convention here as an outing and relief from the city's weather conditions.

Residents of East Church street have complained to police that early arriving delegates Sunday night had participated in revivies that precluded the peace and sleep of residents in that section but no action has been taken.

Miss Mary B. Ervin of North King street, world and national secretary of The Loyal Temperance Legion, children's branch of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, is in Columbus, making arrangements for the engagement of several hundred children for the demonstration and pageant to be given the week beginning September 7.

"The children's demonstration will take place on the afternoon of September 7, said Miss Ervin in Columbus. The title is, "Our Nation's Builders," and I am training 50 children for that. In the pageant we will have several hundred boys and girls in an historic street parade.

"This pageant will be called, 'The March of Allegiance' and will emphasize the sentiment for law enforcement. In this we expect to have 500 children. Mrs. Ruth J. Worrell of Dayton, said Miss Ervin, will be in Columbus in a few days to complete plans for the street pageant 'The March of Allegiance' and I will assist her. We expect that to be a wonderful spectacle. The pageant will demonstrate Christian citizenship, child welfare, social morality, Americanization, women in industry, and other departments of W. C. T. U. work.

Miss Ervin in talking of her work in Columbus, said: "I have been in the national work since 1914, and prior to that was state secretary of children's work in Ohio for six years. This is the hardest time of the year to get children together. They are on their vacations, and many of them leave town with their parents. School will open about the time we have the convention, so that too will make it hard to hold the interest of the children. But even with such handicaps we expect a great pageant."

"Today there is a marvelous steady moral training going on in the ranks of the Loyal Temperance Legion under the leadership of consecrated womanhood. It is the one direct channel where the principles of the Women's Christian Temperance Union can be regularly installed into the child life, and where future leadership is strongly developed. It offers a moral safeguarding and training second to none, and the mother organization that is true to its high calling, will find it possible to enlist boys and girls for The Loyal Temperance Legion, and recruit them as national prohibition guards, thus promoting a movement of tremendous influence for good upon the life of the child today."

PRIZES OFFERED FOR DISPLAYS AT FAIR

During its existence the Ohio State Fair has achieved many distinctions and has succeeded in showing the way in many departments to other fairs in the country. Perhaps no achievement has been so satisfying as the Boys' and Girls' club work, which set a new record in point of entries and premiums in 1922. At this time $9,000 was offered in prizes, not including premiums amounting to $1,200 for city school garden work. This generous offering attracted the largest list of contestants ever to be entered on the books in Ohio.

Realizing that the future success and expansion of agriculture rests with the rising generation, Manager G. R. Lewis has increased the $9,000 to $11,550, and has advanced the city school garden department as well. All the classes in the junior department are exact duplicates on a modified scale of the senior competitions. In quality of the animals and exhibits they often equal those to be found in the open classes.

The Extension Department at the Ohio State University has contributed largely to the advancement of this phase of fair activity through its Boys' and Girls' Club Department. Every agricultural organization in the state champions the cause of the youngsters and their popularity is substantiated by the throngs that gather about their displays.

An entry of unusual interest was recently received by the Ohio State Fair management when the Elm Hill Farm of Brookfield, Mass., sent in papers for Perennial Lobellia. This animal, which is owned by O. W. Means, is an imported Jersey cow and was recently sold to Mr. Means for $6,500—the highest price of the year. Not only does the value of this cow attract attention, but her color, as well. She is pure black and white a combination that is extremely rare in the Jersey breed.

ANNOUNCE CHANGES IN OFFICE FORCE OF COMPANY

Stanley P. Haines, who has been connected with the Hooven and Allison Company offices here for a year, has been transferred to the sales force succeeding R. C. Beale, who has been re-assigned to other territory, officials of the company here have announced.

Lee Mitchell, of Miamisburg, has taken a position at the Xenia offices of the company in general sales work. William Morrison, of Xenia, has also taken a position in general work in the sales department. They have already assumed their duties here.

Nervous Ills Banished by Nerv-Worth

"For 25 years I was troubled with a nervous condition," said H. H. Riddle, 249 W. Spruce street, Washington, Pa., and he continues: "I lost weight and was troubled with gas after eating. I tried various remedies, but got no relief. Nerv-Worth was recommended to me by so many who had used it. It helped me wonderfully. For my nervousness is all about gone, and I have no further trouble with my stomach or gas."

NEW LIBERTY

The marriage of Mr. Clarence Gerlaugh to Jeanette Swerlings took place last Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock. Later in the evening a host of friends bailed the bride and groom and wished them good luck. Refreshments were served and a jolly time followed. Mr. and Mrs. Gerlaugh will make their home in Marion, Ohio for the next six months where Mr. Gerlaugh is working on the Harding Hotel.

Last Wednesday evening Mr. Charles Miller was pleasantly surprised by many friends. The occasion being his birthday. The evening was spent in dining. Lunch was served.

Mr. George Kemp and Mr. M. Croft have returned from a fishing trip at St. Marys.

Miss Dorothy Herzog is spending several weeks with her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Karl Zink.

Miss Saura Karnath has returned home after a delightful visit with her grandmother Mrs. Warner near Midway.

VEGETABLE TONIC IS BETTER THAN SODA FOR INDIGESTION

When your digestion isn't what it used to be—food sours on your stomach, causes heartburn and flatulency (belching of gas), when your tongue is coated and you feel uncomfortable after meals—quit taking soda or any of the drugs that dull the lining of your stomach and never give you lasting relief.

Build yourself up! Take a delicious tablespoonful of Dr. Thacher's Liver and Blood Syrup after the next meal. Notice the quick improvement in your appetite and digestion. Dr. Thacher's is a purely vegetable tonic, delicious to take and ideally suited to the weakened stomach. It Jamestown by G. O. Carpenter. adv

Share Dr. Thacher's with the family after the next few meals. The cost is only a trifle and your money will be returned without question if it fails to give complete satisfaction. Now sold in Xenia by Sayre & Hemphill and Sohn's Drug Store and in Jamestown by G. O. Carpenter. adv

OFFICERS OF GREENE COUNTY FARM BUREAU

Just as the Car Hit the Second Barrel.

Farm Bureau members in Massachusetts believe thoroughly in the old saying, "All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy." Accordingly, midsummer field days and picnics are the rule now in almost every county.

Three major field days were held recently. Hampden county led off with a big affair at Riverside park, Agawam. Middlesex secured the use of the beautiful Groton school grounds, and Worcester wound up the series by paying a visit to Fay Mountain Farm, Westboro.

Dr. W. H. Walker of California, vice president of the American Farm Bureau federation, was the principal speaker at each of these big gatherings.

Except for Dr. Walker's message, most of the time at these picnics was given over to recreation. In this respect, Middlesex took the lead. Its program included a horseshoe tournament for the men, a croquet tournament for the women, tug of war competitions between teams representing various towns, and last, but not least, an automobile race with women drivers. In this event the prize went to the one who drove through a lane of barrels in the shortest time without knocking one or more of them over.

In addition, there were the usual foot races, sack races, shoe scrambles, wheelbarrow races and relays. Other team events included a centipede race for men and a chariot race for girls. Five silken banners were awarded to the towns piling up the largest total of points.

In Hampden county the Granges combined with the Farm Bureau in helping to make the affair the biggest farmers' picnic ever held in western Massachusetts.

SPECIAL SERVICE IS PROMISED BY ROADS

Result of First Meeting of Farmers and Carriers.

Special service in transporting farm supplies has been guaranteed co-operative buying associations in the Eastern states by 12 big railroads as the result of a conference held between representatives of the roads and the farmers' organizations in Cleveland.

Eight co-operative associations distributing farm supplies in the East were represented, including the G. L. F. exchange, Eastern States Farmers' exchange, Pennsylvania Federation of Co-operatives, Maryland Agricultural corporation, West Virginia Co-operative association and the Farm Bureau federations of Ohio, Michigan and Indiana.

The movement of solid trainloads of supplies from the Mid-West to the East was promised the producers' associations. This type of service is now rendered packers and other big shippers of perishable products. The railroads represented were the New York Central, New Haven & Hartford, Pennsylvania, Erie, Boston & Albany, Nickel Plate, Peoria Belt line, Canadian Pacific, B. & O., Grand Trunk, Big Four and B. & M.

In commenting on the conference, H. E. Babcock, general manager of the G. L. F. exchange, declared: "The meeting brought together for the first time the carriers and the producers of the East. The attitude of the roads is one of co-operation. Their action in providing solid trainload service will mean lower costs of production in the East, for it will eliminate some of the unsatisfactory transportation conditions of the past, and it will permit the co-operative associations to furnish service of a high order to their members."

DIVERS SALVAGE $2,000,000 MORE GOLD FROM LAURENTIC

The third season of gold fishing in the hull of the liner Laurentic, toredooed off the Irish coast seven years ago (has produced a catch of nearly $2,000,000.

The Treasury estimates that the close of the season leaves $6,000,000 in gold at the bottom of the ocean for the winter, which will be fished for next year.

The wrecked vessel, which lies only 120 feet below the surface, this year was worked harder than ever with a dozen marine divers below and sixty merchant marine seamen above. The yields of gold in previous seasons were $3,000,000 and 6,000,000 respectively.

The gold has not been raised in large amounts at a time, the average for a day's catch being only $7000, and on some days nothing at all. The gold is forwarded to the Bank of England and credited at the Treasury to the national account.

The men have been using a diving spear with a dial attached that shows whether the spear point is touching gold or a base metal such as iron. The clocklike dial is kept aboard the salvaging ship and is connected with a spear which is in the hands of the diver working ninety feet below the surface. The handle moves to the left of the zero mark when the spear is prodded against a piece of iron, copper or other metal; but when it touches gold the dial swings to the right. It veers further when it comes in contact with an eighteen-carat bar than when it touches one of nine carats.

The apparatus was brought to the attention of the Admiralty in 1920 by a college professor. Previous to that time the divers in three years of labor had recovered only 608 bars; but since the galvanometer was brought into use more than 1200 have been brought to the top.

The work of the divers, never very easy or safe, has been made harder by the activities of the hungry dogfish, which seem to think they are the watchdogs of the wreck. Each diver carries with him when he goes below a large knife as a protection against any fish that get too bold. Each man receives a thirty-second part of the treasure he recovers.

ENCOMIUM TO WORK

We remember reading, a few years ago, the advice of a celebrated Englishman, Lord Strathmore if our memory serves us right, for old age or his personal experience for it. "Oh, just keep on working" was his prescription, and many others have found it a good rule.

We all here remember that our splendid citizen, the venerable James Jeffries, the cabinet maker, who recently left us, kept on cheerfully at his bench until near the century mark. Always in a good humor and full of the activities that make life worthwhile—even going to church and Sunday School to almost the very last.

We are led to this line of thought by the following article, which we find in an eastern paper just received.

"Patriarch of Bankers is the name they give to John A. Stewart, who at the age of 101 is still 'going strong' as chairman of the board of the United States Trust Company in New York. His birthday, which has just occurred, has been made the occasion of country-wide felicitation. He is the oldest graduate of Columbia University and at the call of Lincoln he served as Assistant Treasurer of the United States. So many years spent in fealty to a lofty ideal of personal responsibility set an example that is influential outside the confines of a man's own profession or of his immediate acquaintance."

Many indeed have found out too late that stopping work was a mistake. Perhaps all through life they had been fretting over their work and looking forward to the good time they were going to have when they quit it and retired. How many retired farmers have you and I known who sold the old farm and moved to town to live in ease as they proposed, who found leisure so irksome, so monotonous that they soon laid down and died. And not only farmers but active town folks, have found that cessation from work left them so miserable that they could not stand it. The law of nature is that a certain quantity of work is desirable.

True, in the case of the above quoted banker and in the case of many others, it may not be necessary save as self protection or self preservation. There are so many ill effects from idleness and work takes the mind from self, that therein lies the secret. Even to the studios, one often gets tired of reading and welcomes work.

Mrs. W. M.: "I recently saw in your column a 'hint' about removing chewing gum from clothing. I too have been annoyed by gum stuck to clothes, dishes and furniture, but have found that kerosene oil, applied with a small piece of cloth, is more effective than the ice which your column advised. Kerosene is also fine to use if one gets flypaper stuck to anything."

Answer: I think we have the latest set of readers that any column could possibly have. For busy housekeepers are continually taking the trouble to write in about things they have found helpful. I am sure we all thank you for this kerosene hint.

Mrs. A. M. B.: "I have been greatly interested in Efficient Housekeeping and I feel impelled to answer one of the questions recently published, from a reader: 'How can one use the yolks of eggs without the whites?' Here is my way of using egg-yolks alone: Break them into a pan of cold water that can be put on the top of the stove, bring the water in the pan gradually to the boiling heat. Boil 20 minutes. These perfect little balls are not only fine for garnishing, but invalids can digest them when they cannot take the yolks raw. If the yolk is broken before cooking, it cannot be used in this way."

Answer: I want to say, again, that I think we have very helpful housekeepers reading our column.

Miss M. F. P. C.: "Will you please name a few articles that would be appropriate to give in celebration of a Cotton Wedding the first anniversary?"

Answer: A small sewing basket filled with spools of thread; an apron; a dust cap; any article made of flowered cretonne—such as a bag, a sofa-cushion or a covered dress-hanger; a braided rag rug; an unbleached muslin table runner, lunch-cloth or bureau scarf perhaps stenciled, perhaps worked all around with a simple scalloping, or finished with narrow cretonne bands stitched on.)

If the friend is very dear to you and you wish to give her an especially big present, why not work her one of the popular unbleached muslin bed spreads, using heavy white cotton in a design made entirely of large French knots?

TURTLE? NO!

This is a sample bed bug that may be found in this section of the state. Should you find them during house cleaning time don't worry as it is easy to rid them with the use of the New Chemical P. D. Q. (Pesky Devils Quietus.)

No matter how large they may be, color or sex or where they came from, P. D. Q. will kill them and their eggs as if liquid fire had hit them.

Not an insect powder, no dust or muck; will not injure clothing, and will actually kill Moths, Roaches, Cooties, Bed Bugs, Fleas and Ants and puts an everlasting to the Pesky Devils, as it destroys future generations. Impossible for them to exist with its proper use.

MR. BUTLER'S ACHES AND PAINS

Vanished After Using Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

W. Philadelphia, Pa.—"When I cleaned house last April I must have overfired, for after that I had pains and aches all the time and was so discouraged, I could hardly do my own housework, and I could not carry a basket of groceries from the store nor walk even four or five squares without getting terrible pains in my back and abdomen and lower limbs.

I went to visit a friend in Mt. Holly, N. J., and she said, 'Mrs. Butler, why don't you take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?' My husband said that if it did her so much good for the same trouble, I should try it. So I have taken it and it is doing me good. Whenever I feel heavy or bad, it puts me right on my feet again. I am able to do my work with pleasure and am getting strong and stout. I still take the Vegetable Compound and Liver Pills, and am using Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash."—Mrs. CHARLES BUTLER, 1223 S. H. Union St., W. Phila., Pa.

some way. Can you describe it?

Answer: Yes, and they are splendid for these new sweaters which are so loosely-knit that they stretch if hung from the shoulders. To make it wind an oval embroidery hoop with a strip of cretonne, sew a little tab of cretonne at one side put an ivory ring at top of this tab, to hook over a nail, and lay the sweater through the hoop.

MISS JOHANNA LEMICH, COLUMBUS, O.

Miss Johanna Lemich, 525 Short street, Columbus, O., is another user of Kadlok who claims that her health has steadily improved since she first started taking it.

Miss Lemich was born in Hungary and speaks four languages—Slavish, German, Hungarian and English; she was formerly employed at Billows' Mattress Factory and is very well known here, especially among her own people. In a signed statement recently given to the Kadlok expert, she said:

"My health was very poor, due to kidney trouble; I felt exhausted and played out; could not eat anything to speak of and was as nervous as could be. I have been taking Kadlok for a few weeks and my health has shown steady improvement; have no bother with my kidneys; eat hearty and feel entirely well in every respect. Kadlok helped me the first day I started taking it, and I am glad to recommend it."

Kadlok is delicately adapted to stomach needs; it is purely vegetable and entirely free from narcotics or habit-forming drugs. Weak, run-down men and women will find Kadlok highly beneficial.

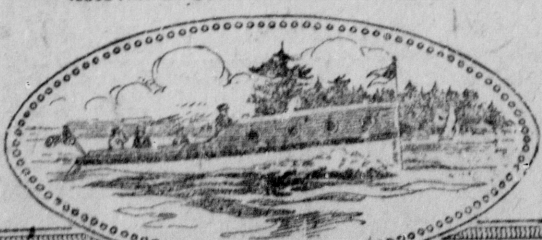

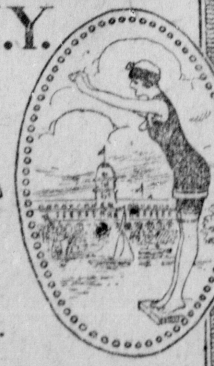

Kadlok can be had in Xenia at Sayre & Hemphill's Drug Store. adv

REST
Oh, it is sweet to romp in play
Upon life's worries steal away,
'Tis good to lay the burden down
And cease to struggle for renown,
But oh, my boy, before your fun
You first must have your duty done.

'Tis sweet to rest and sweet to dream
Upon the banks of yonder stream;
'Tis good beneath a tree to lie
And build your castles in the sky,
But bitterly you'll rue the day
If you have shirked your task to play.

You cannot rest with easy mind
If care must follow on behind;
You cannot play with conscience clear
If want or shame is standing near
By sorrow many men have learned
The right to pleasure must be earned.

'Tis sweet to play, but sweeter far
Those hours of ease and pleasure are,
Which follow toil. The weary best
Enjoy their days of peace and rest
And he is never wholly gay
Who has not earned the right to play.

VALUATIONS

We alone are the appraisers of our happiness. And this happiness is determined by the valuations we put upon the things that make life worth while—and even attemptable.

When you place a false valuation on anything in life, it is like getting on the wrong road. Sooner or later you will have to inquire or pick out the way back to the right road.

In nature there are no false valuations. Worth is as it is.

The average values make you an average man. But through striving for those things which at the time seem far out of your possible reach, your valuations on all effort—so that the trivial and unimportant become mere passing specks before a great vision and an unbeatable spirit.

Life seems to drop away at times, leaving us alone and stripped of all conceit an boast. It is then that we are able to find ourselves again, make up never and higher valuations, and return to the world from which we so suddenly fell—to walk with chin up and heart strong.

Everything that we attempt reflects our inward emotions and forms the fabric from which we weave the garment of our completed desire.

The world is constantly growing better to him who has formed the habit of placing a high valuation on human effort.

We can lose a great many times—and that quite seriously—if we have fortified ourselves against losses by valuations that are as tenfold as sets against all liabilities.

Let the floods come! There is safety upon this high ground.

TENNESSEE BUREAU FORMALLY LAUNCHED; PROGRAM ADOPTED

At the state convention held in Nashville recently, a permanent state farm bureau federation was perfected and a program of work was adopted.

The convention was one of the most enthusiastic meetings held by a state farm bureau federation this year. Twenty-nine county farm bureaus united to make up the state organization. Nearly a dozen other counties were represented at the convention and sought information as to how to proceed in perfecting their own county bureaus. The group of counties already organized lie principally in middle and west Tennessee, although a few strong farm bureaus are located in the eastern part of the state. About 7,500 members are enrolled.

The convention at Nashville was addressed by President O. E. Bradford, Vice President W. H. Walker, Co-operative Marketing Director Walter Peret and E. P. Taylor of the American Farm Bureau federation.

Edward A. O'Neal, president of the Alabama Farm Bureau federation, gave a graphic account of the way his organization is co-operating with the counties in putting through an effective state program. A. E. Markham, president of the Tennessee Cotton Growers' association, pledged the co-operation of his organization with the state farm bureau federation. The Agricultural Extension service of the University of Tennessee is in hearty accord with the purpose and plans of the farm bureau in the state.

The constitution and by-laws of the Tennessee Farm Bureau federation were adopted. These provide for an executive committee of seven, with vice presidents from west Tennessee, middle Tennessee and east Tennessee, the three natural group divisions of the state.

J. F. Porter of Maury county, who has been the temporary president of the state organization and has guided the plans resulting in a permanent organization, was elected president. The constitution provides for a $10 membership fee, $6 of which stays in the county, $3.50 goes to the state, and 50 cents to the American Farm Bureau federation. Four outstanding projects were adopted in the state program of work.

The Tennessee strawberry pool will bring together the many successful co-operative shipping associations already organized in Tennessee. These will be grouped around three principal shipping districts—the Humboldt district for west Tennessee, Chattanooga for east Tennessee, and Bowling Green, Ky., to serve the strawberry growers of middle Tennessee. A state fertilizer pool will be brought together. A state lamb and wool pool will be perfected. Organization work, so as to add to the number of county farm bureaus, will be pushed in a number of new counties at once.

NURSES' TRAINING SCHOOL

Applications for enrollment in the September classes of the registered Training School of the Yonkers Homeopathic Hospital and Maternity should be filed with the superintendent as early as possible, as all applications must be forwarded to the State Board of Regents for approval.

The minimum educational requirements are one year of high school work or its equivalent. Preference will be given young women having had more advanced work.

Central Training Classes have been established for the preliminary course, as approved by the State Board, and are now held under a special instructor.

The new Nurses' Home, costing approximately $115,000 and accommodating 54 nurses, is nearing completion and will be ready for occupancy at the beginning of the Fall term.

The City of Yonkers, an attractive suburb of New York City is located on the east bank of the Hudson River, and has a population of over 100,000.

Our Hospital is open to the general practice of medicine and surgery of all schools. This one fact alone gives to its students in training a broad and unusual preparation for their life work. An affiliation with the Post Graduate Hospital of New York City for a course in special medical and surgical work, and at the Hospital for Communicable Diseases for a short course in contagion, makes the two and one-half years spent in training in this Hospital especially complete and most advantageous for all young women desiring to obtain the best possible preparation for the profession of the Trained Nurse.

The registration of the Training School, under the New York State Board of Regents, entitles its graduates to the degree of Registered Nurse (R. N.) without examination, if they so desire.

Many opportunities are open to such graduates as: Private and institutional, public health, Red Cross missionary, industrial office and hospital school as rapidly as possible, and administration work and teaching.

The Hospital is governed by the rulings of, and is approved by, the American College of Surgeons.

Plans are being perfected to double the capacity of the Hospital in order to meet the demands made upon it by the public for increased accommodations. This rapid increase in work forces us also to enlarge the membership in our Training School as rapidly as possible.

For application blanks and detail information, address at once, Superintendent, Yonkers Homeopathic Hospital and Maternity, Park and Ashburton Avenues, Yonkers, N. Y.

Imaginative Motor Pilots Show Wit On Spare Tire

Trick sayings of trite nature to adorn motor vehicles popularly termed flivvers compose an interesting out door sport now occupying attention.

Imaginative motor pilots conceive catchy wisecracks that are painted on the spare tire covers now much in vogue. The style, if such it be, was originally the brain child of some motor manufacturing advertising manager who suggested the use of the tire cover to slip in a good word in favor of the dear old bus.

Automobiles forced to take the dust of some gasoline chariot while they memorize until they can read backward some smart saying painted on the tire cover, are bound to have that little thought brought forcibly to their attention and impressed upon their minds very thoroughly.

It also furnishes a time-killer for the motorists forced to jockey along in the rear of the crowd. Although his sweet woman may have driven him from his favorite chair and his Sunday paper he may keep up his reading during the long afternoon, imbibing the brief literature on the back of passing machines.

Reading these tire covers has come to take the place of the old strap-hanger's pastime of getting his literary diversion and enjoying his fiction from the collar and pickle ads in the street cars. In other words this old fashioned commuter who used to put himself to sleep between the office and the house by reading about the values of some sort of breakfast food as a brain producer or the flappers who used to get a lot of innocent amusement out of comparing passengers with the statements in the ads directly over their heads, now find similar satisfaction in reading the rear end signs on the autos.

Signs like "Another Puddlebumper" or "Count the Lotholts" or "Yes, it's a Mortgagemaker" were from the fruitful trains of the advertising men. But the movement has spread. Now every automobile owner buys a book of synonyms and sits up nights thinking up smart cracks to decorate his tire cover with. The result is amazing and furnishes one of the national peculiarities of this country.

Here are some gems. On the tire cover of a flivver touring car was this effort: "Why Girls Leave Home"—right out bold like that. The car looked as if it would have more of a tendency to make the man who pays the garage bill leave home. Another flivver owner borrowed his trite saying by paraphrasing the "Pal O'Mine" that identified a large car. The flivver owner made it "Pest O'Mine" which shows he was a truthful and none the less inventive motorist.

Another flivver, disguised almost beyond recognition, bears this shot around the world: "Don't Rush this Can." And another was getting away with this inspiration to murder, "Yes, We Have No Packard." And so they go, vying with each other to see who can produce like the popular song writers, the most meaningless wisecrack.

Taking a cue from "Tad" the cartoonist, whose name is T. A. Doran, and who originated the "Yes, We Have No Bannana" line, the following is suggested for some motorists anxious to catch at the correct psychological complex: "Are olives different?"

DR. SCARBOROUGH RECEIVES MENTION IN MAGAZINE

Dr. W. S. Scarborough, president-elect of Wilberforce University, Greek scholar and author, is mentioned as a "Negro who is an intellectual, rather than as a Negro intellectual," in an article on "The Negro Problem as viewed by Negro Leaders" in the June issue of Current History.

The article was written by Abram L. Harris, a college graduate and frequent contributor to the negro press, and concerns the various movements for the advancement of the race. It is illustrated with photographs of colored leaders including a picture of Dr. Scarborough who is now connected with the U. S. Department of Agriculture at Washington D. C.

DEFER ACTION ON INCREASE IN PAY

Columbus, O. Aug. 28—The State Board of Control today deferred action relative to the request of State Welfare Director Harper for $171,000 as increased pay for 1,359 guards of state institutions. This amount represents a 20 per cent boost in wages.

The postponement was made in order that State Senator J. F. Atwood, Columbus, chairman of the Senate finance committee, and member of the control board, could attend a meeting of the board later this week when action is expected to be taken. The meeting, it was stated, will be held before August 31 on which date 40 guards at the State Penitentiary have threatened to quit, unless their pay is increased.

JUDGE SATER TELLS WHY BOND REFUSED

Columbus, O. Aug. 28—"Bank delinquencies should not be permitted to become a habit, or epidemic," Federal Judge Sater declared here in a statement explaining why he rejected the $30,000 bond offered for the release of Fred W. Hecht, Dayton, alleged embezzler of over $300,000 of the funds of the American National Bank and Trust Company, Dayton.

"Only one of the bondsmen, Philip Haas, is, in my opinion, sufficiently qualified, with $30,000, to deal estate assets above his liabilities," this week when action is expected to be taken. The meeting, it was stated, will be held before August 31 on which date 40 guards at the State Penitentiary have threatened to quit, unless their pay is increased.

Railroad Progress In the United States

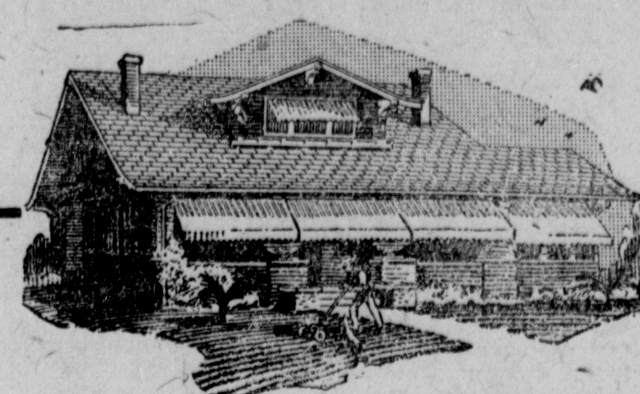

Pennsylvania
Railroad System
The Standard Railroad of the World

THE GREAT era of railroad progress in the United States was the period prior to the development of regulation in its manifold modern forms. "Regulation with teeth" had its rise in the early part of the present century. Before that time the railroads were conspicuous as leaders of the country's advancement. They kept not merely abreast but ahead of the nation's needs and had a reserve capacity to take care of boom periods and extraordinary demands.

Since the advent of "toothed" regulation—which really means the transfer of the powers of management to governmental agencies—this condition has been steadily altering and has finally been completely reversed. Today the capacity of the railroads lags behind the nation's needs—checking instead of facilitating general progress. In late years the gap has been increased to a marked degree.

There is only one remedy—to attract more capital into the railroads. There is only one sound way to bring that about—to make railroading a profitable industry once more. Ability to earn profits is the only basis of credit in any business—including the business of railroading.

CONFERENCE YEAR ENDS; EIGHTEEN MEMBERS TAKEN IN

Eighteen new members of Trinity Methodist Episcopal Church were taken in Sunday at ceremonies that marked the close of the conference year.

Fourteen of the new members were received into full membership after the usual probationary period while four were people who had their letters transferred from some other congregation.

A report of the financial standing of the congregation during the fiscal year will be made at the West Ohio Conference which opened in Marion, Ohio Tuesday, by the Rev. V. F. Brown, pastor.

The Rev. Dr. Brown left for Marion Tuesday morning. The conference will be in session a week and there will be no services other than Sunday School at the church next Sunday. The Rev. G. A. Scott, pastor of the First M. E. Church, also went to Marion Tuesday to attend the conference.

Both ministers are expected to be returned to the local pastorates during the annual re-assignment of ministers that will feature the conference.

Styles BY LENORE

With the first glimmering of autumn one of the most pronounced fashions to be noted is the persistent display of striped tops. But how dry and common place it sounds to speak of these beautiful wraps as merely "striped" coats, for the term in no degree gives the slightest hint of the subtle blending of tones, the satisfying qualities of the dull reds and greens and yellows, the browns that are like autumn leaves seen through the clear waters of a brook. That is why these coats are more than utility coats, although they have the protective qualities of a utility wrap. And that is why they bid fair to go far in their fashion career as coats for street wear as well as for travel.

The model illustrated in the sketch, in two tones of brown with a suggestion of red, is but one of the many designs to be seen in exclusive New York shops. One of the conspicuous examples of this new kind of coat is three-quarters length, flaring below the knee, and cut somewhat like an English raglan. Another, a full length model, has a straight silhouette, and fastens at the side with a single magnificent bone button. There are wide revers and a rolling collar, edged with a narrow strip of perforated patent leather and a half-inch fringe of fur.

It takes a figure of fine proportions to wear these coats well.

Miss L. Shields Tells How Cuticura Healed Pimples

"My trouble began by little, red spots appearing under the skin and then broke out with pimples. The pimples were large and red, and later festered. My face was almost covered with them, and they itched and burned causing me to scratch. At night I could not sleep well. The trouble lasted about a year.

"I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment and they afforded relief in a few days. I continued using them and was completely healed after using three cakes of Cuticura Soap and three boxes of Cuticura Ointment." (Signed) Miss Lillie Shields, Star Rt., Buena Vista, Ohio.

"Daily use of Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Talcum helps to prevent skin troubles.

Sample Free by Mail. Address: "Cuticura Laboratories, Dept. B, Malden St., Mass." Sold every where. Soap 25c. Ointment 25c and 50c. Talcum 25c. Cuticura Soap shaves without mug.

A WIFE'S STORY

By Jane Phelps

Chapter XII

It is hard to believe the things I did in those dark days of semi-poverty. The straits I was put to to keep up appearances. It would have been far easier for me had we frankly acknowledged our inability to keep up the same style of living as we had before Paul's money had flown. I did the housework, cared for the children, sewed, made over until the original dress or hat had disappeared in the process. Paul was as critical of my appearance as ever, demanded that I look well. Yet only occasionally did he give me any money. I implored him to give up the house, take a small apartment where the work would be lighter, our expenses less. But in vain.

"Stop fretting at me," he would say querulously, "I'll find something suitable soon."

He managed in some way to pay the tradesmen enough so they let us have what we needed to live, yet they were never paid up; never were we out of debt to them. At times I mistrusted the landlord had to wait for the rent. But in some way he pacified him, and we remained in the house. I think had we owned the furniture I should have been more in sistant in my demand that we move. But we owned nothing, save the cribbs for the children. We would have to spend considerable to make an apartment livable.

One day I was looking over the advertisements in the morning paper when my attention was caught.

Paul was advertising his rooms in town. He was giving them up at last. The furniture was offered for sale.

That night, after telling him I had seen the advertisement, I again begged him to give up the house, keep the furniture, and take a small inexpensive flat in a quiet and cheap locality.

"I need money. I shall sell that furniture," he told me.

"But you won't get a great deal for it, and think of the rent we would save," I replied. "The work here is too heavy for me." I pleaded. "I feel frightened sometimes, fear I shall become ill. I am so tired all the time." I never pleaded the care of the children as a reason for exhaustion.

"I tell you I need money! Must have it, so there's no use wasting your breath talking. You let the maid go—I had nothing to do with it. If you didn't want to do the work you should have kept her."

"Maids do not work for nothing, and I had no money to pay her," I replied.

Paul made no answer. The next night he did come home, but the following day he came early, and gave me some money. He was in good spirits, telling me I worried over nothing. He also played with Joan, something he seldom did. Usually he scarcely noticed her, never spoke of Laura unless she annoyed him.

My children were my greatest, almost my only happiness. Joan was a gay, irresponsible little creature, independent, full of high spirits, a favorite with every one. She was strong and healthy, so I perhaps did not give her the attention I should. Laura was frail, fretful, very dependent. As she grew older she was very quiet, cared little to play with other children, and clung closely to me.

Perhaps because of my withdrawal from our friends, Paul too had ceased to care about meeting them, or visiting them. Very occasionally we would spend an evening with the Markhams, but I noticed a difference in George's manner toward Paul. He was always polite, but the old warm friendliness was gone. To me he was the same as ever. I wondered if he knew something of Paul that had changed his feeling toward him.

I never dreamed of anything more serious than that we were in debt; that Paul was careless of his bills. To a man like George Markham, this would be cause for cessation of intimacy.

But Evelyn never failed me. She visited me constantly, took the children to ride when I was busy so relieving me. How I should have got through those years without her I do not know.

Laura was five, Joan seven, when brother Tom again came East and spent a few days with me.

HUSBAND SOUGHT IN MYSTERY CASE

Battle Creek, Mich., Aug. 28.—Authorities abandoned their theory that G. MacKay Price, sought in connection with the death of his bride, had committed suicide. Price is alleged to have shot and killed his young wife after she refused to discuss his charges that she had been untrue to him.

"You wouldn't dare to shoot me," Mrs. Price is said to have taunted her husband when he threatened to kill her. Price, according to his sister-in-law, Mrs. L. J. Zopp, fired five bullets from a rifle into his wife's body. The alleged slayer then went to a neighbor's house and asked for a gun, with which to kill himself. His request refused, he returned to his own home, washed his clothes and disappeared.

DENTIST SLAIN

Cleveland, Aug. 28.—The body of Horace W. Hamilton, his face badly mutilated, was found at the foot of an outside stairway leading to the basement of Public hall here. His hands were marked with knife cuts and in one of them was clenched an open jack knife. Police believe he was attacked and dragged to the foot of the stairway. Hamilton, a dentist, was employed in a laboratory here. A negro suspect is under arrest.
